Opportunities in STEM

STEM Careers for Women

As it is International Women's Day in March, we are shining a spotlight on the lack of women in STEM careers:

*It is widely acknowledged that STEM careers are male dominated. Percentage of women in STEM statistics include just 15% of Engineering graduates are female. The percentage of women in STEM for technology and mathematics are 19% for Computer Studies and 38% for Maths. The shortfall is hardly surprising when we consider that 13% of the overall UK STEM workforce are women in STEM and there are relatively few female STEM women role models as a consequence.

Stanford Women in Medicine programme:

- Twyford is proud to announce that four Y12 students have been accepted on to the highly prestigious Stanford Women in Medicine mentorship programme
- Well done to Dana Hamish, Fardowsa Hersi, Ines Tafat Bouzid and Lorraine Brobbey.
- We look forward to sharing their experiences & top tips for Medicine in a future bulletin.
- This is particularly great to see as we are celebrating International Women's Day in March, and currently only 35% of all University students studying STEM subjects are women (UCAS 2021-22)

Nuffield Scholars Research Placements

- Nuffield Research Placements in partnership with Stempoint East have received 10 application from Y12 Twyford students 7 of the applicants are female for their scholarship programme to be given experience on live projects at research institutions such as UCL.

Successful applicants will be announced in March 2022.
