

Making friends

Use sticky labels, or paper and a bit of blu-tack or sticky tape. Draw eyes, a nose and a mouth and cut them out to stick faces on other objects in your house. You could also use googly eyes or stickers. You can use these objects in your imaginative play and storytelling, just like the characters in 'Simon Sock'.

Things to think about

- Does your new friend have a name? If so what could it be?
- Who would they be friends with? Why? Do they know any of your other toys or will you need to introduce them?
- What kind of character are they? Happy, grumpy, friendly, excitable, cheeky?
- I wonder where they would live?
- I wonder what their favourite game would be?
- I wonder how they got to your house? Maybe they lived on the moon before and their rocket crashed. Maybe they are somebody's pet and they got lost. Maybe they secretly moved in while you were all asleep?
- How would their voice sound?

Have fun playing together!
