Message from Mrs Crossley

This week saw the first week of our re-vamped Celebrations Worship on Friday morning, led, once again, by our Children's ACE Committee. Christian Values Awards were given to children from each class, to celebrate children who display our school's core values around the school.

Our new attendance awards were well received by the pupils and there was much excitement around the individual weekly award, which was won by Arthur this week. For this award, every child who has been here every day this week has their names put into a hat and a winner is drawn at random by a member of our ACE Committee. The winning child wins a £5 Amazon gift voucher, which we purchased with the money raised on non-uniform days. The draw resets each week so children have a chance to win any week that they attended school all week. Our school attendance was impressive this week, with 97.4% overall, which is just slightly higher than our target of 97%, so a huge thank you to you all for making such a fantastic effort in the first week of the launch of our new attendance policy.

Our reading awards continue, with a child from each key stage being drawn from the pot of names of each child who has read at home three times that week and brought in their signed reading record. We will be re-stocking our selection of brand new books to be given as prizes very soon, after our next Scholastic Book Fair.

World Book Day was a great success yesterday, with children enjoying four mixed age workshops, held by each teacher in school. The children got to move round each classroom and worked together to create fantastic book-based work, including a school poem!
