

Willow Class News

This Week... We've here there and everywhere this week! Some of Willow Class in, some out - it's been like the hokey cokey!

But! We have had some fun along the way!

In maths, we have playing 'What time is it Mr Wolf' and playing time bingo! Super time skills Pharrell and Dylan!

In English, we have shown some fantastic reading skills as we continued with our story 'Little Babaji'. Our letter in phonics is 'h' and we have seen some super letter h work, both in school and at home. In writing we have shown great skills in our letter formation, and Viren's writing wowed us this week. Well done Viren!

In Art, we created some fabulous pieces in the style of Wassily Kandisky. We used natural materials and other items to create our paintings, and Mohammed worked really hard on his. Well done Mohammed!

In geography, we talked about Florence and famous artists from Italy. We painted our own Mona Lisa's! Khane was working at home and spotted the Mona Lisa, after painting his picture, on the telly! Well done Khane!

In history, we were looking at Roman pots and their uses. We made some fabulous pots using clay. They look amazing!

In PSHE we have continued to talk about our feelings. Ethan has been enjoying the Attention Autism video's uploaded on Google Classroom. Super Ethan!

In science we went on a mini-beast walk and looked through some mud to see what we could see. I think the worms may have run away from us! But we had fun looking! And...on Monday we had a visit from a tortoise called Terry and explored his habitat how to look after him! Mohammed drew a fantastic drawing picture of Terry's habitat all by himself!

And finally...
