

Oak Class Weekly News

Week beginning 17.01.22

This Week:

Some of our 'Castles and Dragons' work:

We have been making models of Zog - the dragon in our story book. The children have really enjoyed using a variety of materials to make their little models. They have then practised describing Zog using the model to help.

We really enjoyed going to the Ribble Valley on Wednesday. We visited the 'Café Autisan' where we enjoyed drinks served by autistic members of the community. Some pupils in Oak Class said that they would really like to work there. Later, we went to the castle in Clitheroe. We walked around the castle grounds and looked at the different features. Kai and Brandon asked some brilliant questions about what they saw.

In My Thinking and Learning sessions, we have started to learn about subtraction. We have been doing practical work to understand what subtraction is. If you can do some taking away tasks at home using real items (such as biscuits, spoons, etc.), it would help to support the work in school.

In My Creativity, we enjoyed doing observational drawings of the castle at Camelot Theme Park. We looked at a photo, talked about the shapes we could see, and enjoyed sketching the castle which no longer exists!

Next Week:

On Wednesday 26th January, we will be going on a visit to the coast - please look out for letters in bags.
