

This week...

Welcome back to all our lovely families after half term. We hope you all had a nice half term and had a good break.

This term our topic is 'People who help us'. We have started to learn about postmen and our focus story is the jolly postman. We have begun to read the story and talk about the characters. This will help the children to be familiar with the story before world book day.

We have been painting pictures of the characters from the story and talking about how they look.

We have been working on our scissor skills and repeated patterns.

The children have been playing in our role play post office area.

This week in the provision we made cups of tea as part of our role play, as the Jolly Postman drinks lots of tea on his deliveries. The children were very engaged with this activity and some of them seem like they would enjoy a good brew!

In baking we made flapjack, linking to the three bears.

The children loved exploring and playing with the porridge that was in our tuff tray area as part of learning about the three bears from the story. Our maths focus was post man themed this week.

Next week: we will be continuing with our story the jolly postman.
