

Oak Class Weekly News

Week beginning 24.01.22

This Week:

Although we have had to revert to a reduced class size, the children have coped really well - we are really proud of them. Thanks to those who have managed to do some activities at home. Please look out for texts and emails from management for information about next week.

In Myself and My Active Body, we have enjoyed taking part in lots of medieval aiming and shooting games. The children particularly enjoyed taking a wooden sword down a course and hitting a shield.

In My Creativity, we have continued to work on our observational drawing skills by sketching Windsor Castle. We looked at a picture of the castle, talked about the main shapes, and carefully drew what we could see. The results were very impressive.

The children have been working towards writing a written description of Zog the dragon. Some approached this using a gap-fill task, others thought of words to describe Zog, and some pupils managed to write their own full paragraphs. Samuel thought of some great words - brilliant!

Unfortunately, we missed our trip to the coast this week. We hope to rearrange as soon as we are back to a full complement of staff and pupils.

Next Week:

We are looking forward to learning more about the Norman Conquest through drama and role-play. We are also excited to do more work on our jester, king and queen puppets - we are starting to put them together and they are really taking shape!
