

Ash Class's Weekly News

8th Oct 2021

This Week....

What a brilliant week we have had. This week we started to story map our story in preparation for videoing our version of the little green dinosaur. In phonics we have been painting with ICE and we used the ice for sensory play. In science we talked about what animal ate and looked at herbivores, carnivores, and omnivores. We also spoke about what their teeth look like. In history we looked at what the Saxons ate and baked some Saxon bread. Finally, whilst on our welly walk, we looked at a circus tent and a massive truck as the circus is in town. The children were able to have a walk around it and take in how big it is. And when we were walking back to the class the children saw lots of ladybugs so hopefully, they should tell you about this experience.

Next Week...

We will be exploring what animals homes are called and what their babies are called.

Reminders

End of term is the 22/10 and school will shut at the normal time.

After the holidays I am going to book for the children to go on a number of trips but I will let you know in due course.

And finally, the star of the week is...

For being super during sensory drama.
