This Week ..... A fabulous ending to a crazy half term!

We finished our story of Little Babaji and found out that the Tigers turned into ghi (butter) and Mamaji made them into pancakes! So we did just the same! They were really yummy!! In fact they were so yummy, we made them again on Wednesday! Ethan really enjoyed them and gave us a huge smile!

Our phonics letter of the week is 'b'. We had blueberries and bananas to taste. Viren had try of both of these! Well done Viren!

In Art, we made some more Wassily Kandinsky paintings, using our fine motor, and shape skills. They look fantastic! Omar was very careful when painting his lines with a ruler, well done Omar!

In RE we went on 'Hajj'. We learnt that Muslims walk around the Kaaba in Mecca, 7 times. So we walked around our playground 7 seven times, as well as carrying out other Hajj rituals. Khane did his work on this at home, and we all enjoyed watching his video back in school. Well done Khane!

On Tuesday, and Wednesday, we celebrated Chinese New Year. We have collaged dragons, coloured an Ox, listened to, danced to, and played instruments, to a song called Kung Hei Fat Choi, which means Happy New Year in Chinese. Dylan was very good at saying this! We also made some yummy spring rolls!

In History we finished off our clay pots, painting them in gold and black. They look great! Pharrell took great care to paint his. Well done Pharrell.

In Geography we looked at the city, Milan and watched the football team, AC Milan play. Italy is famous for it's pizza, so we made some pizza's, which tasted great!

And finally...
