Religious Law: What is the social context and relevance today?

Spring 1

Knowledge

- To know that religious laws are approved and followed within religions and by their followers.
- To know that in Judaism, mitzvot are laws, with 613 in the Torah; Christian law in the Roman Catholic and Anglican Churches is called Canon Law; and Islamic law is called Shariah Law, based on the Qur'an.
- To know that the 10 Commandments were given to Moses on Mt. Sinai and can be categorized into those relating to loving God and those relating to loving others.
- To know that the aim of the 10 Commandments was to ensure people worshipped only God and respected each other.
- To know that the Two Great Commandments are: To love God and to love each other.
- To know that Joseph Fletcher introduced the theory of situation ethics, which is based on doing the most loving thing in any given situation, regardless of other teachings.
- To know that situation ethics suggests "grey areas" in morality, unlike absolutist ethics which are always black and white.
- To know that agape is selfless unconditional love, one of four types of love (along with eros, storge, and philia).
- To know that Shariah means 'path leading to the watering place' and aims to protect life, the mind, property, wealth, religion, and honour.
- To know that there were 10 Sikh Gurus, with Guru Nanak as the first and Guru Gobind Singh as the last, and the Guru Granth Sahib is considered the lasting Guru and treated with utmost respect.

Rebels: Should we embrace or challenge authority?

Spring 2

Knowledge

- To know that the right to protest is a fundamental democratic right, exercised when people feel their rights are affected or they are mistreated.
- To know that protests can be violent or nonviolent, with examples including the suffragettes (violent) and recent issues linked to BLM, Brexit, and student protests.
- To know that Queen Elizabeth I approved the creation of the East India Company (EIC) to trade in Asia, which later led to trading with India and the removal of disloyal Indian Princes.
- To know that most Indians suffered under EIC rule, being forced to sell goods for low prices and buy them for high prices, leading to a famine where 10 million people died with no British assistance.
- To know that British rule in India led to economic mistreatment (heavy taxes like the salt tax), racial segregation (separate areas for Indians and British), and disregard for Indian culture (only British history taught).
- To know that the partition in 1947 divided India into India (Hindu) and Pakistan (Muslim), forcing many people to move.
- To know that Gandhi was a Hindu who advocated for equal treatment of Indians and removal of British rule, believing in non-violence and peaceful protest due to the Hindu belief in ahimsa.
- To know that Gandhi experienced discrimination in both South Africa and India, trained as a lawyer in South Africa, and led famous marches like the salt march.
- To know that Gandhi was successful in gaining independence from Britain but was disappointed by the partition of India.
- To know that Gandhi was assassinated by another Hindu who disagreed with his peaceful methods.
