Capital Letters, Full Stops & Commas

Read through the short story below. It is missing a) beginning-of-sentence capital letters, b) capital letters for the 'I' pronoun, c) full stops, and d) commas. Add these to the piece and then write it out neatly and accurately on lined paper.

when we reached the cinema we found it was awfully busy the queue to buy tickets ran out of the entrance and all the way round the building thankfully we had bought our tickets online the website let us print them at home which meant we didn't have to queue at all we went straight through to the screen and sat down in the comfortable chairs i was so relaxed i almost fell asleep during the trailers when the film started i was annoyed at the number of people crunching popcorn and slurping fizzy drinks they were quite noisy and didn't seem very interested in the film perhaps i was jealous because i was actually very hungry the film was excellent though and it soon took my mind off my appetite it was about a man who gets struck by lightning and then discovers he can communicate with plants and animals he has many strange and funny experiences my favourite part is when he finds out what his pet cat really thinks of him the ending was quite unexpected but extremely clever by the time the film was over we were all very hungry we had dinner in a fantastic restaurant a few streets away from the cinema to begin with i shared a prawn salad with my dad for my main course i had steak and chips with chestnut mushrooms and a dollop of mustard for dessert i had lemon cheesecake and a cup of coffee we don't normally eat out so it was a real treat for me afterwards we went for a walk around town to help digest our food then we drove home and i went straight to bed
