[4] Devise a CV

Now is the ideal time to create or update your CV making sure it stands out for the right reasons?

As outline on the Prospects website (2020), “First impressions count, especially when applying for jobs”. Below is useful information on what to include in your CV:

- Contact details - Include your full name, home address, mobile number and email address. Unless you're applying for an acting or modelling job you don't need to include your date of birth or a photograph.
- Profile - A CV profile is a concise statement that highlights your key attributes and helps you stand out from the crowd. Usually placed at the beginning of the CV it picks out a few relevant achievements and skills, while expressing your career aims. A good CV profile focuses on the sector you're applying to, as your cover letter will be job-specific. Keep CV personal statements short and snappy - 100 words is the perfect length. Discover how to write a personal statement for your CV.
- Education - List and date all previous education, including professional qualifications. Place the most recent first. Include specific modules only where relevant.
- Work experience - List your experience in reverse date order, making sure that anything you mention is relevant to the job you're applying for. If you have plenty of relevant work experience, this section should come before education.
- Skills and achievements - This is where you talk about the foreign languages you speak and the IT packages you can competently use. The key skills that you list should be relevant to the job. Do not exaggerate your abilities, as you'll need to back up your claims at interview. If you have got lots of job-specific skills you should do a skills-based CV.
- Interests - 'Socialising', 'going to the cinema' and 'reading' are not going to catch a recruiter's attention. However, relevant interests can provide a more complete picture of who you are, as well as giving you something to talk about at interview. Examples include writing your own blog if you want to be a journalist, or being part of a drama group if you're looking to get into sales.
- References - You do not need to provide the names of referees at this stage. You also do not need to say 'references available upon request' as most employers would assume this to be the case.

Virtual Work Experience

What is virtual work experience?

Virtual work experience, also referred to as online, remote or digital, provides young people with the opportunity to gain experience in the workplace, develop their skills, boost their employability and explore new industries and job roles. It's a broad term and can include any opportunity which provides young people with an insight into what it's like to work in an industry or job role while at home. Most virtual work experiences range from half a day to one week, but some may last longer depending on the nature of the work experience and the age of your child.

Not all virtual work experience is the same. Some are open to everyone and provide a platform for students to discover more about the job, view pre-recorded videos on what it's like to work with the organisation, go on virtual tours and possibly take part in some live Q&A sessions. Others may require your child to go through an application process and offer regular online meetings with a supervisor, individual project work, networking sessions, training opportunities and video tutorials. I would encourage Year 11 and Year 10 students to take advantage of some of the amazing virtual work-related opportunities available. Companies are keen to open the eyes of young people to the fast moving and fascinating world of work that awaits them and have invested considerable resources in putting together well thought out and bespoke programmes.

Many opportunities are one day only providing students with a snapshot of careers and professions they might never have considered and can be hosted by national or global companies, normally inaccessible to young people. Most companies issue certificates of completion which students can add to their CV's and all will give students invaluable experience and help develop work relate

Which organisations offer virtual work experience?

As social distancing seems set to remain for the foreseeable future, more and more firms are beginning to provide virtual work experience opportunities to students and young people. Placements are available across several sectors including accountancy, law, marketing and the veterinary sciences. While this is by no means an exhaustive list, here are some companies and businesses currently offering virtual work experience. Click on the text to be taken directly to their website.

Work Experience Opportunities:

Lancashire Teaching Hospitals Trust is one of the largest employers in Lancashire.

NHS believe in growing healthcare workers for future generations, and so offer work experience placements to school pupils and to people who are considering a career in the NHS. Work experience is a great way for pupils to see and understand hospital care in action, and help them make decisions about their future working lives.

Demand for placements greatly exceeds capacity, especially during the summer holidays, so applications will be considered on a first come, first served basis. Placements will only be allocated to people who live in the Chorley or Preston areas. School pupils are only able to access work placements in non-clinical areas, but observational work placements may be available to adults in clinical services. Due to the nature of the service provided, and vulnerability of the patients, some departments are not able to offer work experience placements including Child Health, Clinical Psychology, Emergency Department, Physiotherapy, and Speech and Language Therapy.

If you wish to apply for a work placement please contact the work experience team by email workexperience@lthtr.nhs.uk
