

Help is here

Issue 3

The COVID-19 pandemic has affected people in lots of ways, and whilst Cumbrian communities have been fantastic at supporting each other, many people are finding they need a bit of extra help and support.

This booklet gives you information about the help that is available. Don't wait for problems to get worse, there are organisations that can help, and it's better to get advice sooner rather than later.

It also gives you some tips on what we can do to limit the spread of the virus, and to keep everyone as safe as possible.

A message from

Cllr Deborah Earl, Cabinet
Member for Public Health and Communities

"This pandemic continues to be really challenging for people, and I would urge anyone in Cumbria who is struggling, whether that's emotionally, financially or just because you need practical help to get in touch and seek support. It can be daunting to search through what is on offer and to find what you need. This booklet provides local information for Cumbrian residents on a range of helpful topics and is being delivered to every household in the county.

You might feel worried, or find yourself in a position you have never experienced before. Please don't wait for problems to get worse, there are many local organisations that can help.

Please stay safe."

Deborah

Bereavement support

The death of a loved one can be among the most difficult moments that any of us will face in our lives. Because of the restrictions that the COVID-19 pandemic places on us, the difficulties are multiplied. We may not have been able to see our loved one before they died, and we cannot take part in the usual rituals that help us grieve. Because we cannot meet with those that would normally provide support, then there might be a greater need to contact an organisation for support. You can get specialist support by ringing the Cruse helpline on 0808 808 1677.

Staying safe from abuse

Everyone is entitled to live safely without fear of violence or abuse, and even with COVID-19 restrictions in place, you can leave home to seek help if you are suffering abuse.

NHS services

The NHS is busy during the pandemic, but you should still seek help if you need support with your mental or physical health.

Please choose wisely and use the most appropriate services for your needs:

- Call 111 or visit 111.nhs.uk –for 24-hour advice on any healthcare need.
- Pharmacy – trained professionals can prescribe medicines and give advice for many common conditions.
- GP – for ongoing or persistent medical issues.
- Minor injuries and Urgent Treatment Centres – for urgent but not life-threatening issues.
- A&E - for life-threatening and serious emergencies only.

If you are invited to an appointment please make sure you go, unless you are showing symptoms of COVID-19. Measures are in place to keep patients safe from COVID-19, so please don't put your health at risk by missing planned care.

Maternity guidance

If you're pregnant, and are worried about your maternity care, talk to your midwife about the arrangements that are now in place to allow your partner to be with you as much as possible (for example, for scans and during the birth).

COVID-19 vaccination

The COVID-19 vaccination programme is already protecting people across Cumbria.

The most vulnerable groups of people are being vaccinated first, and you'll be contacted by the NHS when it's your turn. Your GP practice is busy seeing patients as normal alongside delivering vaccinations, so please don't contact them to ask when you are likely to receive your vaccination appointment.

Criminals may seek to take advantage of the roll out of the COVID-19 vaccine to commit fraud. Remember: The COVID-19 vaccine will only be available via the NHS.

- The COVID-19 vaccine will always be available free of charge from the NHS.
- The NHS will never ask you to share your bank details to confirm your identity.

For more information on scams and how to report them, visit the Action Fraud website: actionfraud.police.uk.

Protecting each other during the pandemic

There are simple actions we can all follow to protect each other during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Wash your hands frequently, cover your face in indoor areas such as shops, and make space by staying 2 metres apart from people you don't live with.

The majority of COVID-19 infections in Cumbria are now caused by the new, more infectious variant, and so it's more important than ever to be careful about the basics in order to limit the spread of the virus.

If you develop symptoms

One of the most important ways to stop the spread of COVID-19 is to self-isolate (stay at home) for 10 days and get a test if you experience any of the main symptoms: a continuous cough, a high temperature, or a loss or change in taste or smell. You should get a test even if your symptoms are mild.

Other people in your household should also self-isolate, but they do not need to book a test unless they develop symptoms themselves.

You can book a test on the NHS website, or by calling 119 or via gov.uk/coronavirus.

If you're working and on a low income, you may be eligible for a £500 support grant if you test positive, or if you are contacted by NHS Test and Trace and told to self-isolate. Contact your local district council to apply for these.
