

Rabbit Rock and Roll

Hoppy Poppy looked out of the window at the pouring rain. "I wish I could be in a band and be a rock star like on television," she sighed.

"If you want to be a star, you will have to practise," said Ted.

"I would like to play drums but we don't have any," Hoppy sighed again.

"I think we could make a band right here!" said Ted excitedly as he ran towards the kitchen.

"Here?" asked Hoppy. "No, no, no... we still don't have any drums!"

Just then, Hoppy heard a real drumming sound coming from the kitchen. She ran in to see what was making the noise.

It was Ted and the other toys. They had made their own drums from pots, pans and a plastic box. They had even used spoons for drumsticks!

"Oh, wow!" shouted Hoppy as she hopped towards them. She took a spoon from Ted and began tapping out a beat.

They all played together. "We can be in a band together and play Rabbit Rock and Roll!"

Everyone laughed and carried on playing.
