Dear Parents,

Some parents have told me that their children are using their tablets and other computer equipment a lot after school. They are often meeting online with other children and sometimes people they do not know. At times, they are meeting very late and after their parents have gone to bed.

This is a worry. Please keep an eye on how your child is using devices. If they meet people online, they should be certain that it is a known and trusted friend. Also, please agree the time with your child when they should stop using their devices. Please check they are doing what you have told them. Using devices late at night will affect their sleep. It is now encouraged that children do other things than use a tablet. Encourage them to read books, play games not on the computer and to talk with others instead of always being online.

Yours faithfully,

Mr Moore
