

Connecting Classrooms

As part of our curriculum offer to pupils at Buckingham Primary Academy we are making powerful links with schools overseas to break down misconceptions and enrich our pupils understanding of cultural capital

At Buckingham Primary Academy this academic year, we are a part of the Connecting Classroom project. This is along with a number of other schools within The Enquire Learning Trust.

We are connected with a primary school in Zimbabwe, South Africa. The project will be introduced this academic year which involves staff travelling to their connected school.

Our project will begin by embedding an understanding of differences in culture, discussing the various thoughts and ideas we hold about different countries in the world, especially within the African continent. Giving the children chance to explore the countries involved in the project through dedicated curriculum time, assemblies and whole school displays. Children will then set about testing this knowledge through various communications with the community they are linking with.
