A Note from Mrs Jameson

Today marks Children in Need day, and it is heartening to see so many individuals dressed in spots to support this important initiative. The display of kindness is commendable. Your generous donations will significantly impact the lives of children who may be less fortunate or facing difficulties. It is encouraging to witness our community come together to assist those in need, as every contribution counts towards creating a brighter future for these children. A great display of our school values.

This week in school, we've been supporting National Anti-Bullying Week! It's a fantastic opportunity to engage our pupils in discussions about what bullying is and, just as importantly, what it isn't. We've encouraged the children to reflect on their own experiences and to speak up if they ever find themselves in a difficult situation.

The key message we've shared is this: if you're feeling bullied, please tell someone! Whether it's a teacher, a friend, or a family member, sharing your feelings can make a world of difference. We want all our pupils to know that they are not alone; we are here to help, support, and actively work to stop bullying in its tracks.

On Monday, we held a service of remembrance in school to honour those who have served in wars past and present. We engaged in a poignant one minute's silence, allowing us all a moment to reflect. The children were very respectful during this time. Some children shared beautiful poems they had penned, showcasing their thoughtful reflections.

Our Class 3 students also got creative by making lovely poppies for a wreath, which was laid as a tribute. It was a touching sight, and we could feel the spirit of remembrance all around us.

A massive thank you for supporting the British Legion Poppy Appeal! Your contributions mean so much and help ensure we remember our heroes. We will keep you posted on how much we raised once we have the details from the British Legion.

Pen License

Congratulations to Tristan who has worked incredibly hard since September to gain his pen license.

Friday News

Half Term Christian Value

This half term we are thinking about the Christian Value of trust. Trust is an important Christian value in our school community and one of our school values. It is the glue that holds our relationship together. Through collective Worship we will encourage the children to reflect upon why trust is so crucial in building relationships and what the consequences might be when it is broken. Attached to the newsletter is the home school activity for this Christian Value. If you do carry out any of the activities, please send them in to school so that we can share them in Worship.

Support from the North Wolds Lions

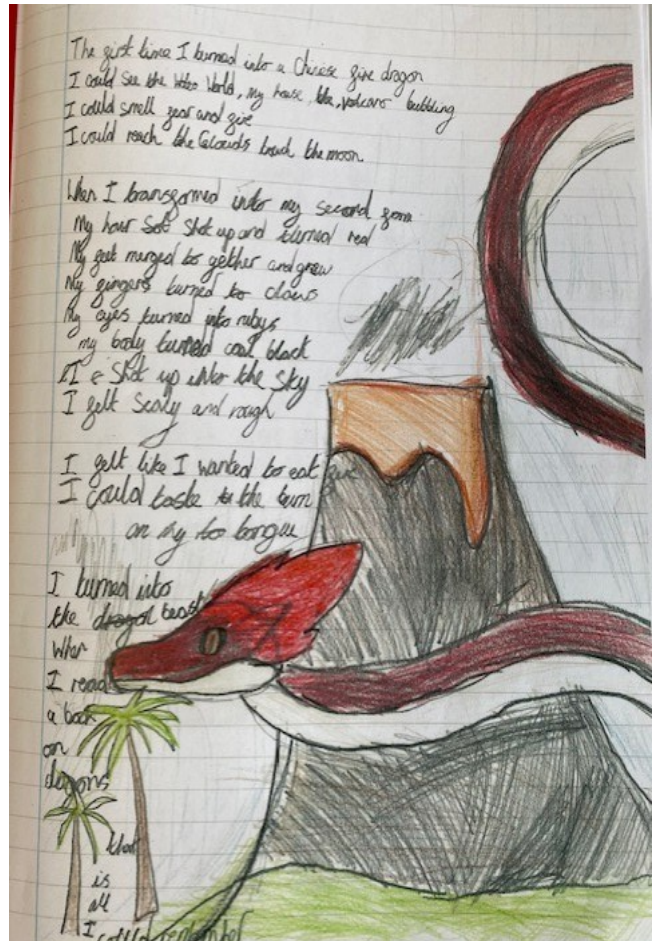

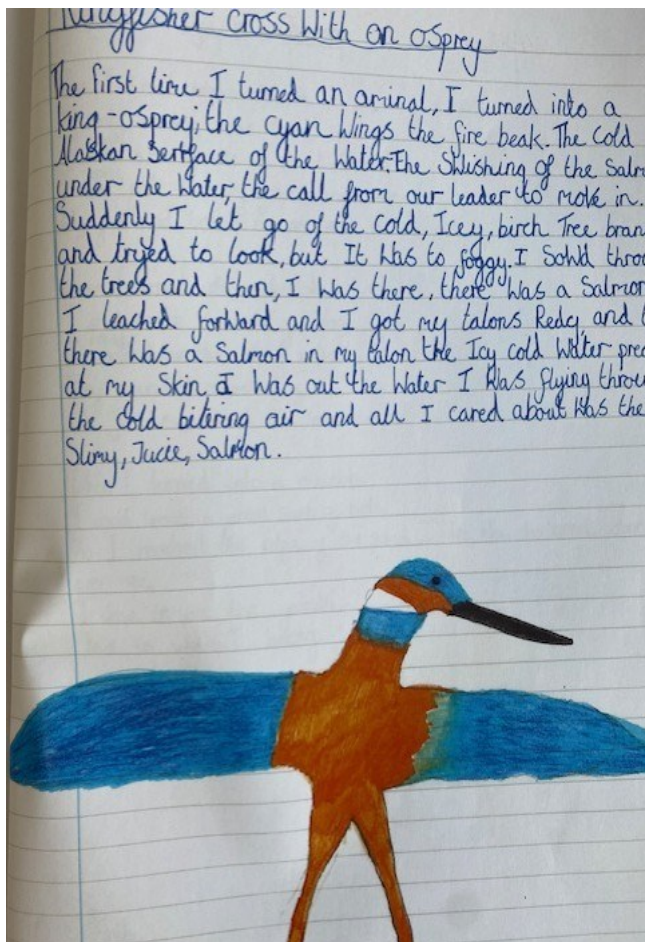

Thank you to the North Wolds Lions Club who donated to school a fantastic set of books and resources to inspire our children about environmental issue. The books cover global problems such as climate change, plastic pollution and habitat loss. We are looking forward to adding these to our collection of books in the library for the children to be inspired by.

Creativity Week

Before half term, the children took part in Creativity Week, a fantastic new initiative by East Riding's Cultural Education Partnership.

All schools across the county were invited to join in the fun and celebrate creativity. Class 4 had an inspiring visit from poet Cassandra Parkin and together they created some amazing poems, which have now been compiled into a lovely class book.

END OF TERM

Christmas came early this week as the children worked together to create pieces of work for the Christmas display at Burton Agnes Hall. This display is always welcomed and we get lovely comments from people far and wide about the children's beautiful work. If you are visiting the hall between 16th November and 23rd December, look out for it.

Well done to our hockey players who took part in another tournament last week at Driffield School. Mrs Young, who kindly gave up her time to support the event, said the children played well, with the Year 5/6 team narrowly missing out on winning the tournament and our new Year 3/4 team gaining skill and confidence with every match. Well done to them all .

FOBAS DISCO

Children can bring their disco clothes to school and change into them after school. Collection at the end of the disco from the front door of school. Please be patient with us as it may be getting dark and we need to ensure every child is with a parent.

Thank you for your understanding.
