We have had the most amazing few weeks in school with a wealth of activities to engage our learners. We have really concentrated upon how to be a good citizen throughout all we have done, whether it be to care for animals, follow the law and rules or to look at how to acknowledge and respond to inappropriate behaviour.

The children in our Upper Key Stage Two classes have been visited by a Magistrate to learn about democracy, debate and law. These sessions were quite hard hitting and taught the children a lot about cause and consequence of actions.

The juniors then have enjoyed watching a fabulous theatre production that delivered a series of live performances and workshops surrounding anti bullying. The older children have carried out learning around this which they have then enjoyed sharing with our younger pupils in KS1.

The children in Parrots, Herons and Robins really enjoyed the pet day on Wednesday. George Claydon kindly came to spend the day with the children, bringing a wide range of animals in for the children to see and learn about. He has a wealth of knowledge and it was wonderful seeing him share the fascinating facts. I clearly was not having a great hair day as you can see above! We are equally very grateful for the support you all displayed by bringing your own pets into school for the children to see. It was a bitterly cold afternoon, but the children got so much from the experience.

These four children have been selected as winners for their fabulous artwork. They will be presented at the Tower Circus next week.

Well done Isabelle Michelbach, Charlotte Wood, Amber Ibbison and Olivia Shaw

Well done to our winning basketball players: Kemi Amu, Fin Gallagher, Dan Workman, George Sorsky and Dan Crompton

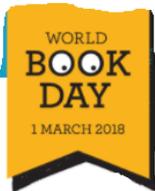

The NSPCC are very grateful for the money you have raised. Thank you very much for your efforts for this very worthwhile charity.

We have discussed many times how we would like our families and children to use the paths to access school and not cut across the staff carpark. This week a child ran in front of a moving vehicle and narrowly missed being hit. Please stay out of the carpark to reduce this unnecessary risk. We also have received complaints from our neighbours about the amount of damage they have to their lawns from our families parking without due care and attention to their private property when picking up and dropping off. These acts can be prosecuted and so we ask that you again are considerate.

The children and teachers enjoyed the day of book related activities. Many dressed up for the occasion.

A huge well done to the following children:

Jacob Ashworth, Emily Stoddard, Tiggi Taylor, Sophia Eaton, Maisie Howell, Millie Walsh, Oliver Tsang, Nancy Bateman, Thomas Healey, Lucia Johnston, Evie Crompton.

Romeo Update

Romeo has successfully completed the first part of his training and passed the obedience course with flying colours. He will be starting his next set of sessions next week. He cannot be in working with the children until he can show control over excitement. Fingers crossed this will be soon.

Thank you for all your continued support for all that takes place inside and beyond school.
Susan McGrath      Headteacher.
