

Unlocking potential together
in faith and love.

Maths

As mathematicians, we shall dive into the area of both triangles and parallelograms! We shall continue to embed our basic arithmetic skills and of course keeping in touch with fractions, measures and time!

RE

As theologians, we shall learn all about Pentecost trying to understand what it means to be a witness and understand the mission Jesus gave his disciples.

History/Geography

As historians and geographers, we shall be exploring the Lancaster and in particular tracing it's dubious claim of being the 4th largest Georgian slave trading port in Britain. This will include several workshops with Lancaster Black History and link to our residential in Liverpool in July.

Computing

As computer scientists, we shall be exploring how the internet was invented and then developed as well as using our programming skills on our own personal BBC microcomputer.

Music

As musicians, we will be examining the history of music as well as preparing to present our very special end of year production!

PE

As athletes, we shall be taking advantage of the finer weather – enjoying Striking/Fielding – Rounders and athletics.

Latin

As linguists, we shall be recapping our skills from this year, speaking in simple sentences and exchanges that show our understanding as well as writing and adapting simple phrases from memory.

English

As readers and writers, we will shall be reading The Undeclared by Kwame Alexander & Kadir Nelson and Henry's Freedom Box by Ellen Levine; allowing them to inspire us to write a number of pieces across the half-term.

Science

As scientists, we will learn what happens when different components are tried in a circuit, for example, switches, bulbs, buzzers and motors.

Art

As artists, we shall be using digital technologies to capture and manipulate images as well as working in mixed media to produce a giant sculpture linked to our history topic.

PSHE

As caring community members, we shall be preparing for the transition to high school with a lot of work around friendship groups and making new starts. We shall also start looking at healthy relationships and what that means as we grow up.
