Year 11 Geography at LHS

Liverpool Fieldwork

Students will carry out the second of their compulsory fieldwork, this time focussing on urban change in Liverpool through a study of the regeneration of Liverpool One. The students will collect their own data using a range of methods and complete a full write up to help them prepare for their paper 3 exam.

Changing Economic World

Students will develop an understanding of global development and the issues surrounding the development gap. The unit aims to give students an overview of economic development and quality of life globally and address the ways in which people are attempting to close the development gap at different scales.

India

Students will study the country of India in depth, looking at the rapid development of the country, the importance of India on different scales, and the impact this rapid development has had on people and the environment in India and beyond.

Tectonic and Weather Hazards

This unit is to give students an in depth look into the processes of natural hazards across the world and how those natural processes affect the economy, the people and the environment. There are three sub units within this scheme that the students will cover and these are: Tectonic Hazards, Weather Hazards, Climate Change. For each sub unit the students will learn about specific case studies and will study in depth the natural processes involved in the formation of these hazards. The unit of climate change will also look to the future and how the changing climate may impact on human populations in the future.

UKs Changing Economy

Students will learn about the UK and how it has changed over time. The UK section of the unit aims to address a range of social, economic, environmental and political issues that affect the development of the UK, including colonialism, the development of industry and the way in which industry has changed, creating a post industrial economy.

Pre Release Preparation and Revision

Students will learn how to use evidence and resources to make a decision. The pre release will be available mid March. We will then study the resources to prepare for the questions that will be asked on Paper 3. Excellent attendance is critical for this unit as there is very little time to prepare and the students may not have covered anything similar in other areas of their course.
