Friday 4th March 2022

This week, we've celebrated reading and books through a range of exciting activities. The children from EYFS, year 1 and year 2 had an extra special treat on Tuesday when Curtis Jobling, the Omega Mat patron of reading, visited Chapelford. He is an author, illustrator and animator who lives in Warrington. You may be familiar with some of his creations for younger children, Raa Raa the Lion and Bob the Builder whilst his books for older children include the Wereworld series. During the afternoon, the children listened to stories, watched their favourite characters drawn by Curtis and learnt about animations. The session ended with the children joining in with drawing Raa Raa the Noisy Lion. They absolutely loved the time with Curtis and there was even an opportunity to ask a few questions.

Yesterday, World Book Day, was celebrated in style and the classrooms were filled with excited children. The theme this year was, 'You are a reader!' Our children proved to us that they are indeed enthusiastic and keen readers as they came dressed as their favourite characters. We had a fantastic range of costumes and some very imaginative ideas. We found Hermione Grainger and Harry Potter walking through our corridors and I bumped into several Star Wars characters. Goldilocks and the three bears made an appearance and were spotted teaching the children in year 1.

Have a lovely weekend
