

Dear All,

The importance of reading and promoting a lifelong love of reading is at the heart of our school curriculum. We are delighted that our children are passionate readers and we always aim to inspire children to immerse themselves in a book.

We are very excited about some upcoming reading events...

From the week of Friday 4 February – Friday 11 March 'Extreme Reading Competition'!

We are always looking for new and exciting ways to celebrate the love of reading a book, both inside and outside school. This year, to coincide with World Book Day, we are holding an Extreme Reading Competition, where children are photographed reading in an unusual place.

This place must be safe but somewhere different to where they would usually read a book. Please send us a picture via your Seesaw account. There are reading prizes to be won for some of the most creative places to read.

Thursday 3 March

We celebrated World Book Day by dressing up as our favourite characters.

The children came into school in costumes and everyone looked just wonderful!

Friday 11 March

Dan Worsley, a Blackpool based author, will be visiting school to talk about his books and host writing workshops with the children across the whole school. A separate flyer will be sent to you all because your children may want to purchase a copy of one of his books following the visit. I have worked with Dan before and he is an inspiration to children ... a real literary treat!

Please keep reading with your children every day and don't forget to sign your child's reading diary to earn those stickers and certificates in assemblies. Your child can also access online Bug Club.

Kind regards,

Miss Deakin
