The Star Outside My Window by Onjali Q. Rauf

From the award-winning author of Boy at the Back of the Class

I've always wanted to be a Star Hunter. Grown-ups call them astronomers, but I think Star Hunter sounds much better. I was going to become one when I finished school, but I can't wait that long any more.

You see, I have to find my mum.

Everyone says she's gone, but I know that's not true – I know she's turned into a star. She's breaking all the rules of the universe to find me again.

And I'm going to break all the rules I know to help her do it.
