Message from Mr Gunchala, Head of School

Dear parents,

We have had a wonderful start to the term after the half-term holidays. Children have settled back in beautifully and attendance is also improving. It was great to welcome all parents to school for this term's parents' evening. This was a great opportunity to discuss your child's progress with their class teacher. Thank you to all those parents who attended, with many going out of their way to thank and commend the great work that the school staff are doing for the children.

A real highlight this week has been our Year 5 children visiting William Shakespeare's birthplace in Stratford-upon-Avon. During this trip, Conway children became tour guides for members of the public, talking them through some of the key facts and information linked to the birthplace. Some children even took part in an entertaining drama performance for visitors. So many members of the public commented on how impressed they were by the children's behaviour, confidence and delivery. The children absolutely made themselves and our school community very proud. Well done Year 5!

Have a wonderful weekend!

Mr Gunchala
