

Puppets

Today we will be:

Investigating a range of puppets and their features.

What is a puppet?

What are puppets used for?

Think, pair, share your ideas.

A puppet is a model version of a person or animal that is controlled by someone. Puppets can be controlled by strings, sticks or people's hands. Puppets are used to entertain people. People go to puppet shows all over the world to see funny characters put on plays and skits.

Lots of people like playing with puppets just for fun!

How many different types of puppets can you think of? List your ideas here...

Types of puppets:

What kind of puppet is this?

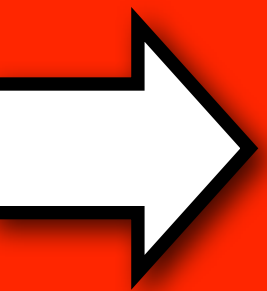

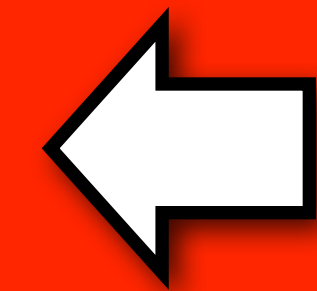

What do you think it is made from?

How does it move?

Do you like this puppet?

This is a marionette.
Marionettes are controlled by strings.
This marionette is made from wood.

What kind of puppet is this?

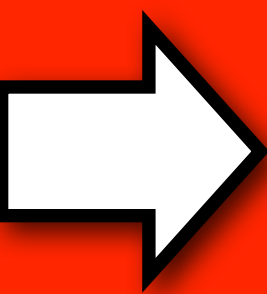

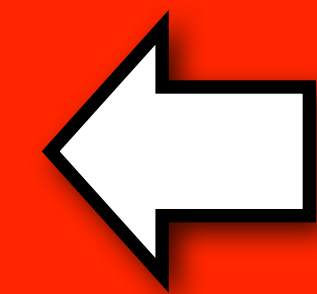

What do you think it is made from?

How does it move?

Do you like this puppet?

This is a sock puppet.
What are they made of?
Socks, of course! This sock puppet has buttons for eyes and wool for hair. It is moved by someone's hand.

What kind of puppet is this?

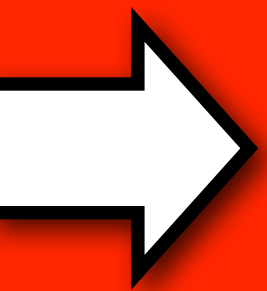

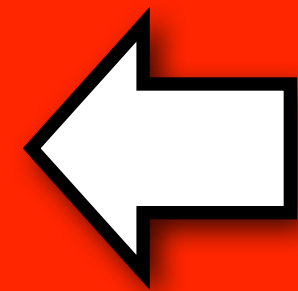

What do you think it is made from?

How does it move?

Do you like this puppet?

This is a hand puppet. It is made of fabric and is controlled by someone's hand.

What kind of puppet is this?

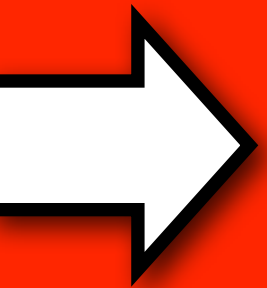

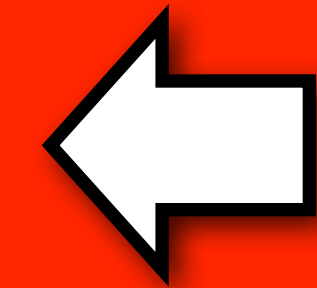

What do you think it is made from?

How does it move?

Do you like this puppet?

This is a finger puppet. Finger puppets are made of fabric, often felt. They are controlled by people's fingers.

What kind of puppet is this?

What do you think it is made from?

How does it move?

Do you like this puppet?

This is a rod puppet. Rod puppets are controlled by a wooden stick. This rod puppet has a wooden head, a fabric hat with tassles and metal bells.

Today we are going to be looking at lots of different puppets and finding out about them. What questions do you think we need to ask ourselves when we are investigating puppets?

Questions to think about:

