During the making process, if you need to change part of your design, don't worry! Most designers alter their plans along the way, in order to improve the finished product. (Just make sure you are still fulfilling the design criteria!)

Finally, do you have any safety tips for each other when using the various tools and materials today?

Plenary:

Move to a different table, and stand in front of another child's completed design.

Carefully observe the structure, and then, on your Comment Card, write down between one and three reasons why you think this is a good greenhouse.

Leave the Comment Card on the table next to the greenhouse, then return to your seat to read what has been written about your own design!
