

Dear Parents and Carers,

This year, World Book Day is on Thursday 4th March. Due to this year's current situation, and the fact that children will be returning on the 8th March, our World Book Week will actually be celebrated between the 8th and 12th March.

Our theme this year will be 'share a story' with our dress up day being a 'bedtime stories' theme on Friday 12th March. Children can come to school dressed up in their bedtime wear and can share their favourite bedtime reads with their class. We have chosen this dress up theme to reduce the pressure of buying or creating a costume as we understand parents have been working very hard with their children at home.

Because we still want to celebrate the official world book day with all children, each class will be allocated a live story time session with their class teacher. Look out for an invite to the Teams story time on your class dojo.

Children will receive their £1 World Book day token as usual but rather than asking families to pay for a dress down pass, we ask that if you would like to make a donation, you can do so on Parent Pay.

Every £2.00 we raise will allow the charity Book Aid to send another book to a reader around the world who really needs it.

Thank you for your continued support,

Miss Hodgkinson and Mrs Thomas
