

Knees trembling. Heart pounding. Alessa finally arrived at the mouth of the vile cave. “ALL I HAVE TO DO IS TO GET IN AND STRAIGHT BACK OUT!” Alessa carefully edged into the cave a bit more, she suddenly slipped on a jagged, tooth like rock which was covered in revolting slime.

Scattered on the stony floor before her, were scorched remains of previous challengers which still had their screams on their lips. Her jaw dropped. In front of her, a swirling, eerie mist was oozing from the cracks.

“WHAT AM I GOING TO DO?”

Alessa smelt the revolting leopionas venomous blood rotting in her nose. “I AM GOING TO FAINT!” Next to her was a rat, which was covered in rotting blood like a blanket, was biting on bones which had decaying flesh covering it. On top of her head, was hearts of innocent people still beating. Hanging like traps, were a streams of sticky cobwebs waiting for Alessa to get stuck inside ready for the leopionas next meal. “PLEASE HELP MEV MOTHER?” Her teeth were chattering. Her eyes were wide open. Alessa carried on with her Quest.