

Deep in the Amazon rainforest

As Nathan wondered deeper into the dense rainforest, he experienced wondrous sights. High above the forest floor, there was a spotted jaguar, which padded along the suspended branch.

Not far from the jaguar, Hercules Beetles stood like soldiers guarding their base. Below the canopy, a sloth, which dangled like a snow globe, swung from tree to tree.

In front of him in the crystal clear water, he saw piranhas swimming swiftly looking for their prey. Above the piranhas, there were some lily pads that looked like giant green pancakes.
