Curriculum Overview Half Term 5

Dear Parent/Carer,

In the following booklet you should find an overview of what your child will be studying this half term in school. We've included key details on what they will be looking at in each subject, how they'll be assessed and what they might do to further develop their understanding. The aim is for this to make it easier for you to work with the school supporting your child with their work.

All lessons last for one hour. In Year 12, students spend 5 hours per week on each of their subjects. They also attend lessons in Preparation for Higher Education on a rotational basis.

The information for each subject is categorised as follows:

Topics / tasks: This is the overview of the topics Year 12 students will be covering this half term.

Content and skills: This explains what areas students will be looking at, and the skills they will be developing during the half term.

Assessment: This explains how students will be assessed on their understanding of this topic.

Stretch and challenge: This gives suggestions of how students can explore this area in more detail if they wish.

Assessment:	Students work will receive developmental comments to act upon, either in improving an existing piece of work, or areas to develop in the next outcome. This term, pupils will begin to spend more time assessing their own work and work by their peers. Most of the assessment is verbal feedback in lessons.

Content and skills:	For the French history module, students will be studying the solidification of Napoleon's Empire, consolidating their work on the rule of Napoleon up to 1807. After that, they will be moving on to study reasons for Napoleon's declining power and influence in the latter part of his reign: the importance of Britain and the Continental System; the assorted coalitions that fought Napoleon and their significance; the consequences of his invasion of Russia; and, ultimately, his defeats in 1814, his exile to Elba, his return and the Hundred Days Campaign, and his defeat at Waterloo.	For the British module, students will be studying the 1960s and 70s, before beginning to look at the rise of Margaret Thatcher. Along with the social, political, economic and cultural shifts of the period, students will also study the defining moments of the period, such as Britain joining the EEC and the industrial unrest that ultimately culminated in the 'Winter of Discontent'.
Assessment:	Following the mock exams completed in the week prior to Easter, students will be regularly assessed using practice examination questions that assess key skills of explanatory writing, building arguments and evaluating different issues and events.
Stretch and challenge:	There is a wealth of literature about Napoleon. Napoleon the Great by Andrew Roberts is a comprehensive, detailed and enjoyable read by an author clearly infatuated with his subject. Mike Duncan's Revolutions podcast (series three) provides an excellent narrative overview of the period and remains highly recommended. The Very Short Introduction to Napoleon by David A Bell and The Very Short Introduction to the Napoleonic Wars by Mike Rapport would also prove useful.	Seasons in the Sun by Dominic Sandbrook would be an excellent companion to the material covered in class. White Heat and State of Emergency , also by Sandbrook, would prove useful too. There is plenty of material covering the 1980s in particular as preparation for the final part of our course, with Thatcher's Britain by Richard Vinen also coming very highly recommended. Bang! A History of Britain in the 1980s by Graham Stewart and No Such Thing As Society by Andy McSmith are also worth a look. If you want to read about what it's like to be drunk in the House of Commons, Kenneth Clark's Diaries: In Power would be a valuable aide to your studies.
