Have you managed to sell any tickets for the raffle? Thank you so much if you have. This will be drawn at the end of the Christmas Bazaar on the 12th December.

Weather

Albeit a slight increase in temperature next week, please ensure pupils have jumpers & coats as part of daily routine as we move into the winter months.

Inspiring Illustration

Abby Hobbs joined the children in Antony and Wenzel earlier this week, as well as sketching in assembly. They were delighted to have some 'sneak-peeks' in her sketchbook at different points throughout the morning, seeing themselves and their friends coming to life on the pages. The children have asked lots of 'how do I draw...?' questions and it's been fabulous to hear Abby encouraging them to explore, experiment and find out what works for them. We look forward to hearing about the progress of Abby's picture books and to her next visit into school.

Thank You: Donations

Whether you contributed to the kilos of food at Harvest time (thank you card shared in assembly); placed a penny or two on Pudsey (over £37 raised in spare change), or supported our Macmillan Coffee Morning Afternoon back in late September – thank you card recently received below...

...thank you for continued generosity supporting such worthwhile charities, and especially this one, close to everyone's heart...

...FOES (AGM)

We sat in our circle and Dan (Chair) worked through the agenda. There's never a moment's hesitation on any member's mind, every year, to nominate themselves for re-election, or generally, to nominate themselves to support in any way they can with school life – and they do. There is an incredible amount of work that goes on behind the scenes with FOES in planning, organising and supporting events at school. I feel very privileged to work alongside such lovely and passionate parents that all come together with one common motive: to enrich the lives of pupils at our school in whatever way they can. Thank You, FOES: your time is such a precious donation.

And thank you, parents. Reflecting on last year's efforts; what's been planned for this year and the money raised so far is staggering. Many of our pupils' experiences have been created and shaped by your continued support.

We are excited to share with you in due course how some of the money in the pot has been allocated for things in-year. Watch this space.

School Council: 20th December

Always an action-packed day (see upcoming dates section!), but with the little free time you will have, what would you like to do and who would you like to be with? Movies, toys, games? Time in Houses, time with class, time with both? Our trusty school councillors will find out the answers during class council and report back the whole school's wishes next week. We will build their feedback into our decision-making for the day. Wonderful.

Learning Highlights of the Week

Highlight Antony:

This week, Antony class has been inspired by the text Mr. Gumpy's Outing. We learnt some adventurous vocabulary, which we used when acting out and retelling the story. We also made our own boats and tested them to see if they would float.

Highlight Wenzel:

Following up from last week's exciting lessons, Wenzel Class has been diving deeper into the world of digital creativity. This week, we focused on learning how to edit our pictures! Students explored various tools to enhance their photos, adjusting colours, adding filters, and experimenting with different effects to bring their images to life.

Highlight Larwood:

Larwood Class showed enthusiasm in Music this week, learning songs for the Christmas Performance. They also showed good recall of their knowledge of Ancient Greece. They were making links with what they had learnt so far in History when reading more about the origins and traditions of the Olympic Games.

In Science, we have been looking at the classification of vertebrates, sorting amphibians and fish according to their key features - including the tricky to sort axolotl!

Highlight Rauf:

This week, Rauf Class produced some fantastic writing, whilst delving into thoughts and feelings of the main character, from our class reading text. Children used some excellent vocabulary to describe a character's emotion, and used a range of inferential ideas within their writing. Fabulous!
