

Dear potential year 12 Geographers,

Once you have viewed the documents already uploaded to support you during lock down, you could also explore this geofile. These are key journal articles we use at A Level and you might want to get used to their style and format.

The physical side of the course starts with 'Coastal systems and landscapes'. The content is a large jump up from Coasts at GCSE Level. Read the document and try to get to grips with the terminology. Complete the basic worksheet that will guide you through the reading.

There is also a document called 'key concepts'. These key themes run through the entire A2 course and you'd certainly benefit from getting your head around these too!

Good luck and just email me if you have any questions.
