Extra News Item

This week we have had several parents ring to inform us that they or someone who lives with them has had a positive Covid test.

If someone in your house develops symptoms of Covid then the whole household must self-isolate from that point and your children must not attend school; please do not wait for a test result to come back as these are currently taking up to a week.

If the test result is negative, your children can return to school.

If someone in your household is asked to self-isolate through test and trace; the rest of the household only need to self-isolate if that person then develops symptoms.

Anyone who displays any symptoms of Covid must get tested.

Thank you for your co-operation.
