

FOREFIELD MATTERS

28th January 2022

Dear Parents, Carers and Children,

Thank you (yet again) for your patience and understanding as we continue to face very difficult circumstances in school. Unfortunately, this week several staff members have been unwell and we have had to use some of our contingency plans in order to keep classes in school. As always, this can be unsettling for some children as they have developed strong relationships with their teachers and teaching assistants. Please bear with us – Covid continues to have an impact on everything that we do – and we may not be able to respond as quickly as we would like.

If your child presents as 'unwell' consider taking a Covid test. In the past weeks children and adults in our community have tested positive despite 'only having a sniffle' or a sore-throat. We will continue to be vigilant and you will see that staff will be continuing to wear face coverings and ensuring that rooms are well ventilated.

Water Safety:

As part of our new Relationship and Health Curriculum (part of PSHE), Year 6 have been learning all about 'Water Safety'. This is clearly a very important topic for ALL children at school and so we have put together some useful links that can be used for further information and home learning.

Further links will be available on our website in the coming weeks.

On the 9th February, Forefield is very excited to welcome Luke Temple, who is here to talk to us about his work as an author. Last year, we were lucky enough to take part in a Writing Masterclass, run by Luke, which inspired the children to write their very own chapter of one of Luke's books, 'Mutating Mansion'. There will be an opportunity for the children to purchase some of Luke's books on the 10th February (more information to follow).

Thank you to all of the Reading Ambassadors for doing such a superb job in helping to keep our school library spick and span. Photographs of each class representative (two per class) are now proudly displayed on our Reading Ambassador display, in the school corridor.

Take care and have a lovely weekend!
