How does GMSJ know if children need extra help?
Which types of SEND do you cater for?	Our approach is to be inclusive of all children, therefore we aim to cater for and meet the needs of every child with any type of SEND.
How do you identify children with SEND?	At GMSJ we hold regular Pupil Progress meetings, in which all key stakeholders gather to discuss whole class and individual needs. A standing item on the agenda for these meetings is SEND and a record of discussion is used to monitor individual children's progress, subsequently leading to the identification of SEND in certain cases.
	Teachers are skilled in recognising children in need of additional support or with SEND. This will lead to a discussion with the school SENDCO and the involvement of other agencies where necessary.

A pathway document is available to all staff to support in recognising and seeking support for children who need additional support.

A variety of diagnostic assessments can be used:

- Standardised Test analysis
- Internal assessment data analysis
- Sensory Checklist
- PIVATS
- EBSA Toolkit
- Formal observation processes

A range of other agencies can be contacted:

- Speech and Language Therapist
- Educational Psychologist
- SEND Team
- Specialist Teaching Service
- Specialist Settings
- School Nurse

Please refer to our SEND policy for further information.

How do GMSJ staff support children with SEND?

How are the governors involved and what are their responsibilities?

We have a SEND governor who works collaboratively with the school SENDCO supporting and attending meetings where appropriate.

How do you know how effective your arrangements and provision for children with SEND are? Our school SENDCO is in regular contact with other agencies and the Local Authority SEND Officer. She attends SENDCO Cluster Group meetings organised by the Multi Academy Trust (MAT).

We encourage all feedback from parents and carers of children with SEND, along with external agencies in order to continuously improve our provision for children with SEND.

How is the curriculum at GMSJ matched to children's needs?
What are the approaches to	All lessons are adapted to suit individual and group needs to ensure inclusive education for all children. Teachers use a range differentiation and how do you provide inclusion?

of daily assessment approaches to ensure all children are fully engaged and accessing the curriculum.

Pupil Passports or Individual Education Plans (IEP) are in place for children who require additional support or specific adaptations in order to access the curriculum. These enable children with specific needs to achieve their full potential within an inclusive environment.

A range of specific programmes, resources and interventions are used to ensure successful adaptation and to provide inclusion for all. These are highlighted within this document.

For a small number of pupils, who are not able to access the national curriculum, a highly bespoke curriculum is provided. This is planned through drawing on advice from all the professionals involved in a child's education and assessment is carried out using the engagement model, supported by highly specialised documents such as PIVATS.

How does GMSJ inform parents and carers of children's progress and how to support their children's learning?

What opportunities will there be to discuss children's progress with staff?

We have an open door policy. Parents may speak to staff members at the end of the school day, or make an appointment to discuss more lengthy or private matters.

How will a parent or carer know what progress their child should and is making?

There are termly opportunities for all parents to review their child's progress at Parents Evenings with their child's class teacher, along with additional meetings for parents of children with SEND with the SENDCo three times per year.

What opportunities will there be for regular contact about things that have happened at school?

For some children it may be appropriate to have a home/school diary, which teachers, parents and carers can use to communicate on a daily basis.

All parents receive a full school report each year. If parents require a separate copy (for example with divorced parents) this can be arranged via the school office.

How will a parent or carer know about planning?

Do you offer any parent/carer training or learning events?

When children are involved with external agencies, parents and carers will be invited into school to meet with professionals to understand the nature of the work taking place.

We operate with Team Around the Family meetings (TAF) where necessary.

All curriculum planning can be accessed via the school website: https://stjohnsnelson.co.uk/classes/

Parent and carer training and learning events, for example behaviour workshops, are offered regularly at differing times in order to accommodate parents and carers work/home commitments. These are delivered in partnership with Lancashire Adult Learning or through referral.
