Relationships education,

Relationships and Sex

Education (RSE) Policy

October 2020

1. BACKGROUND

High quality Relationships and Sex Education helps create a safe school community in which our students can grow, learn, and develop positive, healthy behaviour for life. It is essential for the following reasons:

- Students and young people have a right to good quality education, as set out in the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child.
- Student and young people want to be prepared for the physical and emotional changes they undergo at puberty, and young people want to learn about relationships. Older students frequently say that relationships and sex education was ‘too little, too late and too biological’. Ofsted reinforced this in their 2013 Not Yet Good Enough report.
- RSE plays a vital part in meeting the schools’ safeguarding obligations. Ofsted is clear that schools must have a preventative programme that enables students to learn about safety and risks in relationships.
- Schools maintain a statutory obligation under the Student Act (2004) to promote their students’ wellbeing and under the Education Act (1996) to prepare student and young people for the challenges, opportunities and responsibilities of adult life. A comprehensive RSE programme can have a positive impact on students’ health and wellbeing and their ability to achieve, and can play a crucial part in meeting these obligations.
- The Department of Health set out its ambition for all student and young people to receive high quality relationships and sex education in the Sexual Health Improvement Framework (2013), while the Department for Education’s paper, The Importance of Teaching (2010) highlighted that ‘Student need high quality relationships and sex education so they can make wise and informed choices’.

The new guidance issued by DfE 2019 broadened its consultation to include non-sexual relationships as well as mental and physical health.

National Curriculum

RSE plays an important part in fulfilling the statutory duties the school has to meet. As section 2.1 of the National Curriculum framework (DfE, 2013) states:

‘Every state-funded school must offer a curriculum which is balanced and broadly based and which:

- promotes the spiritual, moral, cultural, mental and physical development of students at the school and of society
- prepares students at the school for the opportunities, responsibilities and experiences of later life

These duties are set out in the 2002 Education Act and the 2010 Academies Act. Whole school (Section 5) Ofsted inspections consider the extent to which a school provides such a curriculum.

The government has made it clear that all state schools ‘should make provision for personal, social, health and economic education (PSHE), drawing on good practice’. (National Curriculum in England, DfE, 2013) and that ‘SRE is an important part of PSHE education’ (Guidance – PSHE education, DfE, 2013).

Health & Wellbeing Service, Leeds 2016

This review has been carried out by the Director of Learning: PSHE, in consultation with the Headteacher and Leadership team, Director of Inclusion, teaching staff, teacher governor and the Student Executive Committee.

Reference has been made to

- DfE Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education and Health Education 2019.
- Ofsted Report “Not Yet Good Enough: PSHE education in Schools.” May 2013 (Reference Ofsted 130065) highlighted Ofsted concerns as to the emphasis on biological aspects in RSE teaching in secondary schools. This has been carefully considered during the review of the programme of study for RSE at Guiseley School.
- Other sources such as the ‘My Health My School’ survey, Bullying record and parental concerns have also been considered.

The guidance outlined in the 2019 DfE is intended to be in place by September 2020

The policy will be presented to Governors in November 2020 for ratification.

Once in place, the policy will be reviewed annually in light of changing student needs and national guidelines.

The final policy will be available to all via the school website. Hard copies will be available upon request.

The purpose of RSE at Secondary school

Paragraphs 69 – 81 of the 2019 guidance outlines the aims of RSE education by the end of KS4

The guidance states:

“The aim of RSE is to give young people the information they need to help them develop healthy, nurturing relationships of all kinds, not just intimate relationships. It should enable them to know what a healthy relationship looks like and what makes a good friend, a good colleague and a successful marriage or other type of committed relationship. It should also cover contraception, developing intimate relationships and resisting pressure to have sex (and not applying pressure). It should teach what is acceptable and unacceptable behaviour in relationships. This will help pupils understand the positive effects that good relationships have on their mental wellbeing, identify when relationships are not right and understand how such situations can be managed.”
DfE guidance 2019

At Guiseley we aim to develop students' understanding of RSE and Health through the following strands:

Attitudes and values:

- learn the importance of values and individual conscience and moral considerations
- learn the value of family life, marriage, and stable and loving relationships
- learn the value of respect, love and care
- explore, consider and understand moral dilemmas
- develop critical thinking as part of decision-making

Personal and social skills:

- learn to manage emotions and relationships confidently and sensitively
- develop self-respect and empathy for others
- learn to make choices based on an understanding of difference and with an absence of prejudice
- develop an appreciation of the consequences of choices made
- manage conflict
- learn how to recognise and avoid exploitation and abuse

Knowledge and understanding:

- learn and understand physical development at appropriate stages
- understand human sexuality, reproduction, sexual health, emotions and relationships
- learn about contraception and the range of local and national sexual health advice, contraception and support services
- learn the reasons for delaying sexual activity, and the benefits to be gained from such delay, including the avoidance of unplanned pregnancy

In addition to this, we also aim to:

- raise students' self-esteem and confidence
- develop communication and assertiveness skills that can help them stay true to their values if challenged by others, their peers or what they see in the media
- teach students to be accepting of the different beliefs, cultures, religions, sexual orientations, physical and mental abilities, backgrounds and values of those around them
- support students to lead a healthy and safe lifestyle, teaching them to care for, and respect, their bodies
- provide students with the right tools to enable them to seek information or support, should they need it
- teach students about consent and their right to say no, in an age appropriate manner
- to teach lessons that are sensitive to a range of views, values and beliefs
- ensure that staff teaching RSE remain neutral in their delivery whilst ensuring that students always have access to the learning they need to stay safe healthy and understand their rights as individuals

The aim of RSE is NOT to:

- encourage students to become sexually active at a young age
- promote a particular sexual orientation
- sexualise students

Guiseley School's RSE programme will:

- be an entitlement for all students, including those with additional learning and language needs
- be set within the wider school context and support family commitment and love, respect and affection, knowledge and openness
- recognise that family is a broad concept; not just one model, e.g. nuclear family
- encourage students and teachers to share and respect each others' views with cultural awareness and sensitivity
- ensure students are aware of different approaches to sexual orientation, without promotion of any particular family structure
- recognise that parents/carers are the key people in teaching their students about relationships, sex and growing up
- work in partnership with parents/carers and students, consulting them about the content of programmes
- work in partnership with other health professionals and the wider community

Guiseley School's RSE programme will contribute to:

- the safeguarding of students (Student Act 2004), promoting their emotional wellbeing, and improving their ability to achieve in school
- a better understanding of diversity and inclusion, a reduction in gender-based and homophobic/bi-phobic/transphobic (HBT) prejudice, bullying and violence and an understanding of the difference between consenting and exploitative relationships
- helping students to keep themselves safe from harm, both on and offline, enjoy their relationships and build confidence in accessing services if they need help and advice
- reducing early sexual activity, teenage conceptions, sexually transmitted infections, sexual exploitation and abuse, domestic violence and bullying

LGBT

All people, including staff and students, have a right to privacy. This includes the right to keep private one's trans status or gender-nonconforming presentation at school.

Information about a student's transgender status, legal name, or gender assigned at birth also may constitute confidential medical information.

School staff should not disclose information that may reveal a student's transgender status or gender- nonconforming presentation to others, including parents, carers and other members of the school community, unless legally required to do so or because the child or young person has asked them to do so.

Staff should not discuss trans students outside of school with friends and so on, even when making no particular reference to their name or personal details. The trans community is such a small one that even a casual reference to a 'certain student' may be enough to out that individual or, at the very least, compromise confidentiality.

When a child or young person initially discloses their trans status, it is important to talk to them about confidentiality and who, if anyone, they would like information to be shared with. Trans and gender questioning students have the right to discuss and express their gender identity openly and to decide when, with whom, and how much to share information.

When contacting the parent or carer of a trans or gender questioning student, school personnel should use the student's legal name and the pronoun corresponding to the student's gender assigned at birth unless the student, parent, or carer has specified otherwise

Working with parents and carers

Many parents and carers of a child or young person who identifies as trans or gender questioning will be supportive of their child's gender identity; however, this is not always the case. When working with parents and carers, schools should bear in mind that they are representing the interests of the child or young person. As far as possible, care should be taken to ensure the wishes of the individual student are taken into account, with a view to supporting them during potential transition. Confidential information must not be shared even with the parents and carers without the child or young person's permission, unless there are safeguarding reasons for doing so.

3. HOW SEX AND RELATIONSHIP EDUCATION IS PROVIDED

RSE is co-ordinated by the Director of Learning: PSHE and is taught with the PSHE programme for Key Stages 3 and 4. Biological aspects of RSE are taught within the Science curriculum. Some moral issues and aspects relating to marriage are taught within RE. Online protection issues are delivered at the start of each year during IT lessons and assemblies. RSE within PSHE is taught by teaching staff who have been trained and external providers. Delivery will be in mixed gender groups with some provision for single sex teaching if appropriate.

Consultation on the content of these sessions will take place between the Director of Learning: PSHE, teaching staff, Pastoral leaders, Senior Leadership and student leadership.

Those students who would benefit from a differentiated and bespoke programme of study will be identified through discussion with the Director of Learning: PSHE, SENDCo, School Social worker Student support staff, Pastoral leaders, and parents. Delivery will be given by trained Student Support Staff.

All RSE teaching is expected to reflect the values and attitudes laid out by this document. All RSE deliverers will be expected to have read and adhere to all aspects of the programme of study and its content, irrespective of personal opinion or belief.

4. HOW RELATIONSHIPS AND SEX EDUCATION IS MONITORED AND EVALUATED

This will be delivered in line with the School's curriculum and assessment policies.

4.1 Monitoring

It is the responsibility of the Director of Learning PSHE to ensure that the work described is taught at the stated times. This will be through work, staff and student voice, scrutiny and learning walks.

4.2 Evaluation

Students will be asked to complete the online My Health My School Survey

5. GUIDELINES FOR TEACHERS ON SENSITIVE ISSUES, CONFIDENTIALITY AND ADVICE TO STUDENTS

5.1 Sensitive Issues

These may include:

Puberty

Menstruation

Sexual intercourse

Contraception

Abortion

Safer sex

HIV, AIDs and Sexually transmitted infections (STIs)

Grooming and Sexual Exploitation

Abusive relationships including peer on peer abuse

The classroom teacher is directly responsible to the Head teacher in all areas of the curriculum. This includes areas that deal with sensitive issues. The teacher therefore should show the usual level of organisation for these areas in terms of clarity of objectives, tasks and availability of resource materials.

Teachers should understand the difference between stating facts and stating opinions. If work in sensitive areas of the curriculum causes teachers any concerns, they should discuss them with the Head teacher.

Ground rules

A set of ground rules will help teachers create a safe environment in which they do not feel embarrassed or anxious about unintended or unexpected questions or comments from students. Ground rules might be developed as part of the school's sex and relationship education policy or individually with each class or year group. For example: No teacher or student will have to answer a personal question; No one will be forced to take part in a discussion; Only the correct names for the parts of the body will be used; and meanings of words will be explained in a sensible and factual way

Dealing with questions

Teachers should establish clear parameters of what is appropriate and inappropriate in a whole class setting. Many teachers are concerned about responding to unexpected questions or comments from students in a whole class situation. Having a set of ground rules should reduce the chances of this happening but the following guidelines should be used: If a question is too personal, the teacher should refer back to the ground rules. If the student needs further support, the teacher can refer her or him to the appropriate person, such as the Pastoral Leader or Director of Learning: PSHE.

If a teacher doesn't know the answer to a question, it is important to acknowledge this, and to suggest that the answer is researched later. If a question is too explicit, seems inappropriate for the age of the student, or raises concerns about sexual abuse, the teacher should acknowledge it and promise to attend to it later on an individual basis. In this way, the student will feel they have been treated with respect, but the rest of the class will not have to listen to personal experience or inappropriate information. To maintain trust and respect, the teacher must remember to talk with the student later; and if a teacher is concerned that a student is at risk of sexual abuse, they should follow the school's safeguarding policy referring the matter as a cause for concern to the Designated Safeguarding Lead.

Confidentiality

If a student makes a personal disclosure to a member of staff, that member of staff cannot offer or guarantee unconditional confidentiality. The procedure set out in the school's safeguarding policy for when a child reveals abuse should be used in these circumstances.

The information that has been disclosed should be reported to a member of the safeguarding team. DfE document "Relationships and Sex Education issued 2019, contains relevant guidance on safeguarding and confidentiality. Sections 116-122

Assessment

Teaching staff will have the same high expectations of students as they would in any other curriculum area. They will follow school policy regarding bookwork and presentation.

Lessons will be planned to ensure students of differing abilities including the most able are suitably challenged.

Advice to Students

Trained teachers will give students full information about different types of contraception, including emergency contraception and their effectiveness. Students may wish to raise further issues with staff arising from discussion in the classroom. Trained teachers can also give students – individually and as a class – additional information and guidance on where they can obtain confidential advice, counselling and, where necessary, treatment.

The Student Support Centre is staffed between 8am and 4pm during term time. Members of staff are available to help support students with concerns in the first instance.

Referrals to the Safeguarding and/or Wellbeing team are made through CPOMS

All student support staff work together with tutors and pastoral leaders, but they will not share personal information about students without their permission unless there are safeguarding concerns.

6. WORKING WITH PARENTS

Parents are the key people in: teaching their children about relationships and sex; maintaining the culture and ethos of their family; helping their children to cope with the emotional and physical aspects of growing up; and preparing them for the challenges and responsibilities that sexual maturity brings.

It is hoped that the school's relationships and sex education programme will complement and support the role of parents.

The RSE policy will be available via the school website and parents will be advised when RSE lessons are to be delivered as part of the PSHE programme.

Parents have the right to withdraw their children from all or part of the sex and relationship education provided by school. The exception to this is for those parts delivered in Science lessons as these parts are included in the statutory National Curriculum. Any parent wishing to withdraw their child is encouraged to make an appointment with the Director of Learning: PSHE and a member of the Leadership team to discuss the matter.

7. REVIEW OF THIS POLICY

This policy will be reviewed by the Governors committee for Curriculum and Standards as part of their cycle of policy reviews.

This policy is next due for review in October 2021
