

'ENHANCING ENGAGEMENT THROUGH MUSIC THERAPY'

Interactive Music Therapy Programme that offers parents and teachers resources and ideas to motivate and encourage increased levels of meaningful interaction and engagement

Recording and observation monitoring tracks pupil progress and development

Promoting engagement is a key element in building resilience and relationships for pupils and children on the Autistic Spectrum. By offering activities that are based around initiation, persistence and investigation can provide grounding to develop skills to interact with others at a pace and level that feels appropriate for each individual pupil and child.

Responsiveness

Curiosity

Persistence

ENGAGE

Discovery

Anticipation

Initiation

Investigation

Parents and teachers can use the 'Enhancing Engagement through Music Therapy' programme to open up the possibilities of improved positive response and interaction. During this time of uncertainty, it is important that the pupils and children have the chance to grow and strengthen in new and creative ways and to build their resilience and emotional wellbeing.

Created by Sarah Kong © January 2021

