

Dear year 6's,

I know coming up to secondary school can be scary and intimidating but once you get there you will realise there is nothing to worry about and that it's actually really fun. All the teachers are lovely and willing to help you out.

I was nervous on my first day so I can't imagine how you might feel since you haven't had a transition day but transition days are only a tour of the school, but there will always be a map in your planner and plenty of people to help.

Also don't worry about getting lost and being late to lesson! In year 7, your teachers will let you off if it only happens a few times as they won't expect you to know exactly where you are going. I found it helpful to walk to class with someone in my form who was in the same lesson as me.

Just remember to have fun!
