

Special Educational Needs and Disability – Information Report

Special Educational Needs and Disability (SEND)

A child or young person has SEND if they have a learning difficulty or disability which calls for special educational provision to be made for him or her.

A child of compulsory school age or a young person has a learning difficulty or disability if he or she:

- has a significantly greater difficulty in learning than the majority of others of the same age or;
- has a disability which prevents or hinders him or her from making use of educational facilities of a kind generally provided for others of the same age in mainstream schools or mainstream post-16 institutions.

How will we know if your child needs extra support?

- Transition meetings with your child's primary school in which the strengths and areas of development are discussed of all children. These meetings highlight children that require additional support.
- Baseline assessment – These are conducted upon arrival, with regular monitoring and routine progress checks, highlighting barriers to learning and the requirement for any additional intervention that supports learning.
- Referrals received from staff and/or external agencies are explored, with appropriate support being put in place where necessary.
- Communication from parents and careers – Communication is actively encouraged, any concerns can be discussed and investigated. SEND reviews and drop-in afternoons are held with the SEND Team.
- Students themselves can request for support, if they feel they need additional help with their learning or pastoral care.

What we ask you to do if you feel that your child has a special educational need?

- If you have any concerns regarding your child struggling to make expected progress, please contact their subject teacher or form tutor. Should you feel that your child has a special educational need or disability, please share these with the SENCo (Ms Hambleton). These concerns will be fully investigated, and the appropriate support put in place with review cycles.

How will school staff support your child?

- In the first instance most children can be successfully supported through quality first teaching and adaptive teaching approaches within the classroom.
- Where additional support is required a graduated response process will begin, with outcomes from assessments and reviews potentially resulting in:
 - Adding your child to the school's SEND Register and creating a personalised Passport.
 - In class support.
 - Small group/1:1 literacy (including phonics) or numeracy intervention.
 - Small group/1:1 pre-teach sessions.
 - Small group/1:1 support to aid with social, emotional, and mental health difficulties (SEMH).
 - 1:1 behavioural support and mentoring
 - Pastoral Support plans
 - Additional systems to support with social, communication and interaction difficulties.
 - SEND specialist teacher small/1:1 group work.
 - Literacy/numeracy 'catch-up' group work (deliver during morning form time).

Please note, when interventions are put in place, it may result in withdrawal from some mainstream lessons. This is frequently reviewed to prevent any limitation to students accessing a broad and balanced curriculum offer. This approach is only applied if there is sufficient evidence to support the need for this way of operation.

- This plan will be communicated to you by the SENCo, SEND Support Team or staff member delivering the additional support and monitoring the effectiveness of the intervention.
- Interventions are frequently monitored and reviewed for impact using a range of data sources applicable to each individual child and their progress.
- The school's governing body has an overview of young people with SEND and the provision available to them.

How is our curriculum matched to your child's needs?

- We encourage all children to follow the same curriculum, however teaching is adaptive to suit the need and ability of individuals, ensuring learning is accessible to all students.
- Classes are set according to ability, ensuring students are appropriately challenged. Where required a teaching assistant may be present to support more individualised teacher input or to work with small groups/1:1 on the lesson content. The implementation of our curriculum is adapted to enable all learners to make the best progress.
- The curriculum is coherently planned and sequenced into the taught curriculum and a rich diet of personal, cultural, and spiritual experiences that form our personal development programme. This is designed to develop our students holistically, with the possibility of individualised and personalised pathways into further education for all learners.
- Our flexible and ambitious curriculum enables us to tailor our Key Stage 4 routes around the needs of our young people, empowering them to follow an educational route that is suitable to their individual needs and aspirations.
- Digital technologies strengthen our curriculum delivery in the classroom aiding in the removal of barriers to learning whilst enhancing life-long digital skills through the use of iPads.
- In the event that a young person has an ongoing barrier to learning that limits their accessibility to the curriculum, access arrangements may be assigned as a normal way of working. These are frequently reviewed and based on individual need.

How will we know how your child is progressing? How will we communicate this to you?

How will we support you in supporting your child?

Discussion with staff:

- Open door policy – You can contact the school at any time to speak to a member of staff and at our earliest availability we will return communication or arrange a meeting.

Parent/carer involvement in planning your child's education:

- When a child is identified as having a special educational need, there will be discussion between you and the appropriate member of staff from the school regarding suitable provision. Planning meetings will place the needs of your child at the centre, ensuring all parties understand and agree to the support being provided.
- Parental views are an essential part of our review planning and review process. These will be obtained through a variety of communication methods, Parent/Carer Views Survey, Parents' Evening, and SEND Pupil Progress meetings.

- The school provides a wide range of educational and extra – curricular activities taking account of varying capabilities and interests.
- Where required, TA's and SEND staff attend school trips enabling all students to be involved.
- Parental advice and expertise will always be sought where necessary as part of Health Care plans / risk assessments and in providing consent for students to attend educational visits and school trips.

How will the school prepare your child/young person to transition to the school, transfer to a new school or next stage of education and life?

- Prior to starting at our school transition meetings are held with the primary schools, attended by our transition lead, where all children are discussed regarding their strengths and difficulties. These meetings highlight any children requiring additional support.
- The SENCo meets with the primary school's SENCo/key workers and class teacher to discuss children requiring additional support.
- If your child already has an EHCP an individual transition meeting will occur between professionals from both secondary and primary school, with the LA SEND Keyworker, parents and child (if appropriate). The school encourages open communication from parents if there are any worries regarding transition into secondary school.
- As part of transition, we offer development days, which specifically involve smaller groups of students, giving them the opportunity to meet key staff members and other classmates, all whilst becoming familiar with their new learning environment.
- At all key transitional points, the SEND team offer support to ensure that appropriate provision is available to make the transition as smooth as possible, for example the SENCo is available to attend and advise at options interviews/evenings and can offer support and advice when decisions are being made for Post 16 pathways. Local Authority representatives will be present at EHCP reviews in Year 11 to fully support Post 16 transition.
- When students encounter a transition between school post Year 7, we liaise with the original host school and any agencies involved to gather pertinent information, complete an assessment of need and put in place a plan for their successful integration into school life with us.
- The school has strong links with post-16 providers to ensure the appropriate sharing of relevant information that will support our students when accessing their next stage of education/training.
- As part of the EHCP annual review process, advice will be provided from our school's careers advisor following a careers interview (more if required) with your child/young person. This will further support in articulating the views of your child regarding their next steps and inform the most appropriate pathway for them to secure their ambitions.
- Information sharing when a child moves on is prompt and detailed for their needs to be met and for support and provision to be in place. This will include details of support and provision currently in place to enable a new school to implement a similar support package.

How are the school's resources allocated and matched to children's/young people's special educational needs?

- The 'notional SEND budget' refers to funds provided to schools to support with providing/developing provision for children/young people with SEND. It covers around £6000, above core funding, per pupil with SEND. We will use this funding to meet pupil need and approach the Local Authority when high level needs incur greater cost.
- Our SEND Budget is utilised to secure the appropriate provision/resources for our young people, ensuring barriers are broken down and achievement is optimum.
- Resources are sourced whenever applicable to aid learning and may take the form of bespoke CPD/training around SEND areas of need, employing skilled Teaching Assistants or specialist support workers (including SEMH support), adapted resources for teaching or intervention, enhancing accessibility to learning/school curriculum, and securing professional assessments.

How is a decision made about what type and how much support my child/young person will receive?

- We operate using a graduated approach to SEND to enable us to identify difficulties, assess need, plan provision, apply identified interventions or strategies (do), and routinely review the impact of the support.

Graduated Response Process (ADPR – Assess, Plan, Do, Review)

- Where students are not making expected progress an assessment of difficulties and needs may be completed to identify specific areas of difficulty. This will inform the teaching strategies and tools needed to enable the individual to make more rapid progress and hopefully overcome difficulties. It may also inform curriculum pathways.
- Where appropriate adaptive strategies and quality first teaching does not have the desired impact and progress continues to be hindered by a young person's special educational needs then further assessment of need will be completed and small group or 1-1 intervention implemented that is suitable to the needs of the child and assessed regularly.
- We will measure the impact of all interventions in a number of ways to ensure a holistic picture of achievement and progress.
- Should the young person continue to make less than expected progress despite support matched to their needs and difficulties then we may involve specialists to complete further assessments and/or offer further advice and guidance to help us offer effective intervention. Parental consent will always be sought before involving outside agencies or specialists.

- At all stages parents should be involved in the decision-making process. Our open-door policy invites parents to contact us at any time with any questions or concerns.

SEND register and information.

- A securely held, comprehensive information database outlines the needs and difficulties of any children with special educational needs and the support they receive. This information also outlines advice from specialists and the SEND team, offering strategies for staff to employ when teaching individuals.
- The SENCo reviews the SEND register, pupil attainment data and students in receipt of support termly. We often take advice from our SEND Specialists (e.g. Education Psychology Service) should we have any specific concerns. Parental consent would always be obtained prior to involvement.

Stakeholders' involvement.

- Parents/carers, students, teachers and teaching assistants are all important stakeholders and can be involved in the decision-making process with regards the levels and types of support offered.
- Parents/carers are encouraged to take an active role in supporting us to enable their child to make good progress. You can be involved by contributing to meetings and discussions at parents' evenings, by sharing all relevant information, by offering your expert knowledge of your child and supporting school by reinforcing the teachings in the home environment.
- Your involvement in your child's education is crucial. We would encourage talking to them about what they are learning, supporting them with homework and revision and encouraging them to remain positive about their learning experiences and developing attitudes that enable them to see challenges and mistakes as an important part of the learning process.
- Encouraging reading and writing with your child is hugely valuable and will make a significant difference to their learning capacity and learning attitudes.
- Seek advice from staff as to how you can support learning in specific subject areas – the school's digital strategy offers a wealth of educational opportunity that can also be accessed outside of school.
- Attend parents' evenings, SEND Drop in Evenings and any other meetings pertinent to your child; your views and expertise is valued and always welcome.

Who can I contact for further information?
