

48 Natural Arts

We went around the garden collecting lots of different leaves that have fallen from the trees. We sang the leaves song whilst doing this. (The leaves are falling down, the leaves are falling down, red yellow green and brown the leaves are falling down.) Some of the children may remember us singing this at nursery. Elliott found lots of different coloured leafs, twigs and stones. We then took our findings inside and did our art work. We used glue to stick our picture together. If you don't have this at home you can still do your art work on the table or floor. Capture this by taking a picture of it on your phone.

50
things to do before you're five

7 making music

Today we used empty bottles to make our own music. We used different things from around the house and garden to put into the bottles to make different sounds. We used pasta, pebbles, porridge oats and leaves. We then listened to each bottle to hear the different sounds they made. We played a game of guess the sound we took it turns to close our eyes, listen and guess which sound was being shaken. We even went on to make these for a band! We used bottles to make the music as we sang songs. It was lots of fun.

50
things to do before you're
five

30 Yummy Picnic

With us being in isolation, we were unable to go to the park. We could not go into the garden as the weather has not been great. Because of this, we decided to have a teddy bears picnic indoors. Elliott invited his teddies and dolls by writing them an invitation. We sat on our picnic blanket and had our very own indoor picnic. Elliott really enjoyed it as he loves a picnic and this was a good way to make dinner time a little different.

50
things to do before you're
five