

Endeavour House – Weekly Update

Week ending Friday 8th May 2020

Hello Endeavour!

Another week down and the return of some nice weather.

Again, I hope you and your families are all safe and well and ‘thank you’ to those of you who are sending emails to either your tutor or myself and letting us know what you have been up to and that you are safe and well. It is really lovely to hear from you guys.

Congratulations to the newly appointed Prefects: Stevie W., Ruby M., Olivia E., Ashleigh K., Archie L., Rhianna N., Sian L., Charlie G., Katie L., Aidan R., Ella M. and Ellie G. I know those chosen will be excellent representatives for Endeavour and the school, the House team look forward to working with you all in the future. Endeavour will be represented by 12 prefects in the new academic year and I hope you will all wish them well in their new roles.

Today is actually a bank holiday which was originally moved from Monday to mark VE Day. VE stands for Victory in Europe Day and on this date is when we accepted the surrender of Germany 75 years ago and declared the end of World War II. The bank holiday weekend was moved to this weekend to celebrate the occasion across the country; sadly, due to the pandemic, a lot of events and celebrations have had to be cancelled. However, there are still lots going on and I know a few tasks have been allocated in History so please email any photos to me for anything else you’ve done to mark the occasion.

I would also like to acknowledge those of us that are currently on Ramadan. This is 30 days of fasting, prayer, reflection and community and is observed by Muslims. From speaking to students and staff in the past, I know they find the fasting challenging. This is when they refrain from eating and drinking between sunrise and sunset for 30 days. I know I would definitely struggle with this! Good luck to all involved.

Finally, we are going to be running a House competition in the next couple of weeks so please make sure you keep an eye on your emails from your tutor as we are going to need all your input. More news to follow.

Keep checking your emails and have a lovely weekend. Stay safe,
