

Apprenticeships

An apprenticeship is a real job where you learn, gain experience and get paid. You're an employee with a contract of employment and holiday leave. By the end of an apprenticeship, you'll have the right skills and knowledge needed for your chosen career.

It can take between one and 6 years to complete an apprenticeship depending on which one you choose, what level it is and your previous experience. It's funded from contributions made by the government and your employer.

The most popular way to find an apprenticeship is to visit the website

<https://www.apprenticeships.gov.uk/apprentices>.

Here you will be able to:

1. Find out about apprenticeships and the different types available. Apprenticeships are now available in most industry sectors.
2. Hear real stories and find out about the benefits of doing an apprenticeship.
3. Browse and apply for apprenticeship vacancies.
4. Get hints on tips on how to go through the apprenticeship process which includes your application, preparing for an interview.
5. Find information about how you'll be assessed and certification of your apprenticeship.

For more information see the document A Guide To Apprenticeships by clicking on this link

Whilst doing an apprenticeship you will get paid; for details of the national minimum hourly rate and the national living wage please click here <https://www.gov.uk/national-minimum-wage-rates>.

Levels of an apprenticeship:

Each apprenticeship has a level and an equivalent education level. You can start an apprenticeship at any level.

Depending on the level, some apprenticeships may:

- require previous qualifications such as an English or maths GCSE
- give extra training in the English or maths skills needed so you're at the right level

At the end of your apprenticeship, you'll achieve the equivalent education level. For example, if you complete a level 3 apprenticeship, you'll achieve the equivalent of an A level.

Apprenticeship	Level	Equivalent educational level
Intermediate	2	GCSE.
Advanced	3	A level.
Higher	4, 5, 6 and 7	Foundation degree and above.
Degree	6 and 7	Bachelor's or Master's degree.

Entry requirements vary, but for Intermediate and Advanced Apprenticeships most employers look for GCSE grades 4 to 9 in at least English, maths and, for some jobs, a science or a technology subject. Many employers expect applicants to be able to demonstrate a basic level of ICT skills. For Higher and Degree Apprenticeships most employers look for A levels or equivalent Technical & Vocational Qualifications. It is important to look at each apprenticeship's entry requirements.

You will need to be well prepared for an apprenticeship. You should do some research on the industries of interest and the company or companies offering apprenticeships; look at the different roles on offer and think about which one(s) interest you the most. Remember you will be competing against other people for the apprenticeship and knowing why you want the job and how your skills link to that type of apprenticeship will be important. Ideally, you should also try and do some work experience or take part in something that allows you to demonstrate you have the skills for that job (for example being the finance director for your Year 11 business enterprise challenge or being the team leader on your Duke of Edinburgh Expedition). Doing some preparation will help you confirm your interest in the apprenticeship area and prepare you for when you get invited for an interview.

If you're not ready for an apprenticeship then you can find out about alternatives:

Other methods of finding an apprenticeship:

Get in touch with local and national training providers and colleges that offer apprenticeship opportunities.

Remember that with some of the training providers and colleges, you will be required to find your own employer, so be sure to ask how the training provider or college will work with you and support you with this.

To access a current and up to date list of all the training providers and colleges in Hampshire and the surrounding areas that offer apprenticeships, visit the ALPHI website and click on the link

Another way to find an apprenticeship is to find an employer yourself. You can do this through a variety of methods using:

1. Job search websites. For example Indeed, Reed, Monster, Totaljobs or Glassdoor are a few of the popular ones.
2. Company websites. A lot of companies nowadays like you to apply online via their company website. If there are no suitable vacancies, but you are still interested in that company, contact them via phone, email, post or in person with your CV and a covering letter asking about suitable opportunities. To find company details use your search engine, Linked In, Facebook or www.yell.com.
3. Vacancy bulletins in the Job Centre.
4. Industry specific publications.
5. See your career practitioner in school.
6. Talk to family and friends as they may have contacts in specific industry sectors.
7. Local Newspapers - although this method of advertising is becoming less popular.

General hints & tips:

- Make sure your CV is up to date and get it checked by several people for mistakes. If you email a CV & covering letter don't use a silly email address e.g. judeyjooyay@hotmail.com - be professional.
- When handing in your CV & covering letter in person, dress smartly just in case the manager is available to see you straight away. Make a good first impression.
- Apply for as many things as you can and then accept the best offer.
- Prepare for your interview and practise answering questions you may be asked. Use the following guide to help you
