Outcome of discussion: The children came prepared with their 'homework' on animal charities that we could raise money for in the future. They shared the charities that they researched: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Jessica researched WWF and found out that 55 elephants are killed a day for their tusks!</li> <li>• Dollie-Rae found out that the RSPCA are the oldest welfare charity for animals and were the ones who introduced the law to protect animals.</li> <li>• Rhys Researched and found out that Marwell Zoo have a charity too!</li> <li>• Coco brought in a book that contained a list of the top 10 endangered species; one of which is a Siberian Tiger!</li> <li>• William found many charities but likes 'Panthera' as they help all the big cats!</li> </ul> The children and I loved talking about all the different animals that need help and the ways in which we can help them. Also, thank you to the parents for supporting your children in their research!
