The United Kingdom.

MONDAY (fluency) – read the text and identify any words you do not understand.

Introduction

The UK is where we live. UK is short for the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

It is made up of four countries – England, Northern Ireland, Scotland and Wales. Each one has its own capital city – London for England, Belfast for Northern Ireland, Edinburgh for Scotland and Cardiff for Wales.

Northern Ireland

This is the only country which is not on the mainland of Great Britain. It is part of the island of Ireland. Northern Ireland has lots of stunning countryside. It also has the largest lake in the UK called Lough Neagh. Cloud-carrying winds from the Atlantic Ocean mean it is often wet and overcast there.

Scotland

The country in the north of the UK is Scotland. A large part of it is covered with towering mountains, which is why it is often called the Highlands. The weather tends to be colder than the rest of the UK and they get the most snow there in the winter months.

Wales

Wales is a green, hilly country on the western side of Great Britain. The highest mountains are in the north, the tallest of which is Mount Snowdon. Lots of people visit Wales to go mountain climbing. Although people in Wales mainly speak English, Wales actually has two main languages. Welsh is spoken by over half a million of the three million people who live there. Visitors will notice that road signs are usually written in both languages.

England

England is the largest of the four countries that make up the United Kingdom. It tends to be warmer and drier than the rest of the UK, especially towards the south and east. It is mainly covered with lowlands and gently rolling hills. More people live in England than any other country in the UK. The longest river in England is the River Thames. It is 215 miles long.

Seas and oceans

The UK is surrounded by water. The Irish Sea is in between Northern Ireland and Great Britain. The English Channel (to the south) lets us travel to France and the North Sea is to the east between Scotland and England. A lot of Scotland's coast is attacked by the ferocious waves of the Atlantic Ocean.
