Family Time with Technology

How do you want your family to use technology? What habits do you want to encourage?

Young children best use technology in short bursts, shared with an adult. They can use apps and games that help them learn and actively enjoy technology.

Checklist

Do I offer technology to my child in short bursts?

Do I select technology to help my child's development?

Does my child expect to share technology with me?

Do I put aside technology to engage with my child?

Does my child have time without technology?

'What matters most is sharing it, not how long you use it for.'
