People can have very different views about preserving ancient heritage sites. We can discuss the issue in a calm way and show respect for others even when we disagree with them.

Should a tunnel be allowed to be built near Stonehenge?

Plans to dig a road tunnel near the ancient monument site of Stonehenge in Salisbury, have been approved by the Transport Secretary, Grant Shapps. A two-mile tunnel out of sight of the monument will be built even though it went against the recommendations of planning officials. It is estimated that the tunnel will cost £1.7 billion to create. The Planning Inspectorate had recommended Grant Shapps should stop the plans, saying it would cause permanent harm to the World Heritage Site. But the Department for Transport wrote to Highways England stating: "The Secretary of State is satisfied that, on balance, the need case for the development together with the other benefits identified outweigh any harm." There is now a six-week period in which the decision can be challenged in the High Court.

Do you think that all ancient monuments should always be preserved? If so, who do you think should pay for their maintenance or do you think they should be self-sufficient (pay for their own maintenance through visitor funds)? • Why do you think that modern monuments are very different from ancient ones such as Stonehenge? Can you think of any modern monuments or art installations? Do you prefer modern or ancient monuments? Explain your reasons.
