In life there are many different kinds of races.
We may win some, we may lose some but all of them take courage and determination to ensure we try our best.

One runner lets another past at the end of a race following a wrong turn

A Spanish triathlete has received praise from all around the world for letting his opponent win third place in a race after he took a wrong turn. Diego Mentriga allowed Britain's James Teagle to finish ahead of him in the Santander Triathlon after he made the wrong turn towards spectators less than 100 metres from the finish line. Teagle threw his hands in the air in agony as Mentriga overtook him. Realising his opponent's error, the 21-year-old slowed down and stopped short of the finish line. Teagle finished third by a fraction of a second and immediately moved to shake his opponent's hand. Speaking after the race, Mentriga said his rival 'deserved' a place on the podium as he was ahead for most of the way.

This week's useful video: www.youtube.com/watch?v=8NjRL-K5RM0

Do you think that Diego Mentriga made the right decision to let James Teagle past? What would you have done in a similar situation?

The video of the end of the race has been shared close to a million times online and the extraordinary display of sportsmanship drew praise from around the world. The race winner, Javier Gomez Noya, described the classy act as 'the best in history', while Liverpool goalkeeper Adrian said it showed the 'real value of sport in a single gesture'. Why do you think what happened appeals to so many people? Do you think if Mentriga hadn't let Teagle past, the story would have featured in the news?
