But when the boys have a chance meeting at the post office, they leave wondering what exactly the universe does have in store for them. What if - in a city of 8 million people - they can't find each other again? But what if it is? What if it's us?

When Genevieve leaves for a couple of weeks, Aaron starts hanging out with a new guy, Thomas. Aaron's friends notice, and they're not exactly thrilled. But Aaron can't deny the happiness Thomas brings or how Thomas makes him feel safe from himself. Since Aaron can't stay away from Thomas or turn off his newfound feelings for him, he considers turning to the Leteo Institute's revolutionary memory-alteration procedure to straighten himself out, even if it means forgetting who he truly is..

Rule of Law

There are laws in place so that people use e-scooters safely. If e-scooters become more popular in the future, laws may have to change to protect members of the public.

Question: Should e-scooters be allowed on our roads?

The electric scooters, also known as e-scooters, are now available to rent in selected areas of London as part of a one-year scheme to measure their feasibility. As part of the trial, conducted by TFL (Transport for London) and London councils, the scooters are banned on pavements and limited to 15.5mph. Privately owned e-scooters remain illegal on most roads and cycle lanes due to a law dating back to the 1800s. Anyone who does ride their own scooter could face a fine and 6 points on their current or future driver's licence. The 12-month scooter trial will allow the government to test whether they could offer cost effective travel that could ease the burden on the transport network and provide another green alternative. More than 40 UK towns and cities, including Birmingham and Manchester, have already been taking part in a government e-scooter trial after the change in law.

This week's useful video: www.bbc.co.uk/news/av/uk-57385757

The Met's Chief Superintendent Simon Ovens said officers had seized hundreds of e-scooters modified to reach 40 to 70 mph. He warned some criminals are using them instead of cycles and mopeds because they are fast, silent and unregistered. Do you think the involvement of scooters in crime should be a key factor in deciding if they should be legal on our roads?
