

Reading Overview for Moorhill Primary School (Phonic Phases, RWI levels, Book Bands and Year Group Expectations)

The following grid is intended as a guide to support teachers in identifying appropriate books matched to phonics phases and age-related expectations.

Children at the early stages of reading development – National Curriculum 2014 states that the books used by these children are closely matched to their developing phonics knowledge and knowledge of common exception words. Further guidance from DfE advocates that the books children are asked to read for themselves (i.e. Guided Reading and Home reading books) must be 100% decodable, up until the end of Phase 5 (Year 1 for most children). In order to master phonic decoding as the route to decode words, children should work with books that are written and structured to provide opportunity for them to apply their developing skills and knowledge. For this reason, books are matched more closely to phonics phase than book band up until the end of Phase 5.

In addition to the books the children read for themselves, they should also encounter wider experiences of books and reading each day, experiences which will contribute to their language development, comprehension skills and love of literature (e.g. books explored through Shared Reading, Story-time, familiar books and class book areas).

Developing and fluent readers – from Phase 6 onwards, the coloured book bands provide a useful guide to indicate the increasing level of challenge from different books. Once a child has secured decoding, how easy or difficult they find a text is heavily influenced by their interests and life experiences. The emphasis should then be on broadening and deepening the children's reading experiences, rather than racing through bands.

At Moorhill Primary School reading is taught from the beginning of Reception, in ability groups using Read, Write Inc. Children practice their reading using the books in the list below.
