EDITION NUMBER FOUR

A message from Miss Wilkes...

Hello, I hope you're all keeping well? I'm really missing everyone but feeling lucky to be meeting the staff and pupils that still need to be in school each day. It's helping to see all your fabulous activities, please keep sending them in via the new subject email addresses or your year group email and get in touch if we can help or advise at all. We also have a new support and guidance email address to add to our communication list, and they will also be holding weekly surgery slots alongside the departments.

Thank you for all the lovely comments regarding the phone calls that tutors have started to make to keep in touch. It's been great to hear how you're all getting on. If you haven't heard yet, they are working through lists so let us know if you'd like a call sooner - it may be from a withheld or unknown number of course, so look out for these.

We know things might get tough, please do get in touch, we're here if you need us. I've been contacted by some families from across the country who are using our daily suggested links to activities each day. They found them when searching for the nationally produced OAK Academy daily lessons—fortunate naming for us !! So please remember, it's day 20 of lessons tomorrow, these are just suggestions not expectations ..... everything you are doing and living through is a learning activity. Just pick a few ideas from that day that suit you and your family's way of working. Some are following our little lessons (loving the maths video puzzles from Mr Stephenson; Mr Walker's PE workouts and Ms Parsons/Mrs Pinches singing activities); others the BBC bitesize sessions and some prefer the OAK Academy video lessons.... whilst some mix and match. All of these options are ok.... or just curl up with a fantastic book; help with housework; support family activites....

I can't wait until we can start to be together again, in the meantime, look out for a new assembly every Wednesday and maybe even a Friday Family Quiz !!

SHIELDED PUPILS AND FAMILY MEMBERS I have been advised of the names of pupils that MUST be shielded and have received their letters, however, the list may not be complete and it does not included pupils who are living with a shielded family member. If this applies to you and you are happy to share this with us, please email the academy or Head of Year to let us know so we can put any support needed in place.

Oakfield Academy's Rewards

We see our pupils and staff doing wonderful things at Oakfield every week. We reward these in many ways from smilies, merits, certificates, shout outs and if they've gone over and above, infinity awards. We don't want this to stop while most of our pupils are at home. We've recently been amazed by the effort pupils, staff and members of the community have shown and we'd like you to be able to share with us and nominate. If you know a pupil, a parent or a staff member that has gone that extra step for example working really hard on a project, helped with household chores or shown resilience when they felt like giving up, why not give them a shout out here in our weekly newsletter? For those who have gone that extra mile, demonstrating one or more of our core concepts you could nominate them for an Oakfield infinity award. Nominations will be shown weekly in the newsletter and each month, winners will receive their infinity badge and nomination card in the post. Good luck! Please send your nominations

Willow & Indy Millard 8S & 7O	Morals & Ethics	Creating a wild garden for others to enjoy and painting and planting pots to cheer up neighbours.

Rubbing Art

Emily Honnor from 60 has been busy experimenting with rubbing art. Here are some of the pictures she has created... the rubbings include coins, wooden table, fish slice, lego board, potato masher, paving slab, ruler, yucca plant and tree bark. Emily even managed to do a rubbing of a dandelion head.

Charlotte Loaring-Barr from 5R Charlotte has designed a set for her lamda monologue (maths measuring/scale); looked after the garden; written and edited a letter to her future self; started writing her own 'Tom Gates inspired book (her own project). She has also taught her younger sister the planet order and about day/ night. Completed week 2 of couch to 5km; read at least 1 hour every day and completed doddle maths and doddle tables every day. Congratulations Charlotte from Mr Ward.

Mia Hopkins from 5R has created this incredible 'Dragon Eye'. As part of the Infinity Curriculum and encouraging scholarship, Mia has had one of her clay models shortlisted for the Black Swan, Young Open Exhibition. Sadly the exhibition had to be virtual due to Covid-19. She is very pleased and we are proud she was selected. Ms Stewart, Head of Art

Well done to Logan Hallybone from 5A who used an Oakfield recipe to make these wonderful chocolate muffins. Both Ms Peat and Ms Nightingale were hugely impressed with Logan's efforts, they certainly look delicious! A fabulous hand drawing by Danny Simpson of 5O

It's the BBC Young Composer competition for pupils aged 12 - 18, all abilities and musical backgrounds - why not have a go!

Congratulations

to Seth Leak 5S and Hugo Holcombe 7N who have sent in videos of their amazing musical performances whilst on lockdown. Seth has been busy entertaining the neighbours whilst Hugo has been busy practising after his online cello lessons with Mr Gilbert. These videos can be viewed on the Academy website in the 'Pupil Videos' section in our 'Music Little Lessons'. We look forward to receiving some more of our pupils' videos - don't be shy! Ms C Parsons

Miss Sanders is working hard to create a wellbeing page on our website for our pupils to access which will offer advise and organisations to support us during this difficult time.

WOW! Just some of the activities undertaken by Freddie Weale over the last week. Congratulations Freddie!

MRS GARDNER WANTED TO SHARE THIS LOVELY LETTER SHE HAS RECEIVED VIA THE NEW YEAR 7 EMAIL:-

Hello Mrs Gardner,

Thank you for year ≠ email. I would like to tell you about my crazy adventure and how I have been getting on in lockdown. It has been weird for others and me because I've not been at school, seeing my friends/family or doing activities I normally would be doing. Because I'm not at school It feels a bit like a strange holiday but without all the freedom to see people and get on with visits to the park or camping trips. We have been lucky that it has been so sunny and everywhere is much quieter so everyone can enjoy nature (birds especially). But aside from that I am always thinking of everyone affected by this and trying to stay positive. Those working together and saving lives and staying strong 💪

I have been trying to make the most of all the things at home and surprisingly it's a lot more than I thought. I have been busy home schooling on most the subject. Such as Arts and craft, research, Maths computing, power points, gardening, cooking, drama and more! I like being active so have been doing some different daily exercises to stay fit. Biking, practicing my unicycle, Yoga stretching. Playing Badminton with my sister and Walking my neighbour's doggie once week. I miss playing football and rugby at school I also fingers crossed that we can all be able to go to charter house  $oldsymbol{ extsf{n}}$ I look forward to when we come back to school and see everyone again. I will send some photos to share. Bye but hope to say hi ín person soon enough! Willow Millard 70
